SETS MARK FOR BALLOON FLIGHT TOO

'Chutist Leaps Record 19 Miles

TULAROSA, N.M. (AP) — Air Force Capt. Joseph Kittinger today stepped from an open balloon gondola at a record altitude and fell more than 102,000 feet, approximately 19 miles, in a parachute test from the edge of space.

The Air Force officer broke a number of high altitude records in his dawn plunge from high above the New Mexico desert.

Air Force spokesmen said the exact altitude from which he jumped was not immediately determined but it was a minimum of 102,800 feet and a maximum of 103,300.

Radar observations, which were hampered by a high overcast, measured the lower altitude and instruments carried in Kittinger's open gondola measured the higher altitude.

The tremendous balloon flight and jump established these records:

1. Highest manned balloon flight, bettering the 102,500 feet set by Lt. Col. David G. Simons in a closed gondola.

2. Highest flight in an open gondola, besting the record of 76,400 feet set last year by Kittinger in another high altitude parachute jump.

3. Longest free fall. Kittinger had set this record last year in his leap from 76,400 feet.

4. Longest parachute jump, besting Kittinger's 76,400 foot jump last November.

The ascent began at 5:30 a.m. today at the east edge of the huge White Sands Missile Range. The launching site was just north of the small community of Tularosa.

At 7:10 a.m., Kittinger abandoned his gondola and began a free-fall of more than 84,000 feet.

He is in free fall for 4 minutes, 38 seconds, before opening his main chute 17,500 feet above the desert. It took 13 minutes, 8 seconds for him to reach the ground after leaving the gondola.

Air Force spokesmen said one of the main purposes of today's jump was to test the small stabilizing chute used to prevent spins and keep a parachutist from blacking out.

Raiding Congo Police Arrest U.N. Personnel

Lumumba Demands Peace Forces Back His Regime

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (AP) — Premier Patrice Lumumba's Congolese police swept through Leopoldville homes and hotels today, arresting Europeans and United Nations personnel.

U.N. Undersecretary Ralph Bunche intervened personally to obtain the release of two U.N. officers the Congo police picked up. The police said the officers "were Belgians camouflaged under U.N. uniform."

RAID OFFICES

The Congolese police raided the residence housing most of the U.N. personnel and offices and made several arrests. Shortly after the police left, a cordon of U.N. soldiers from Ghana with fixed bayonets was thrown around the residence.

Lumumba made his show of force 12 hours after U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold left for New York to get a Security Council ruling on Lumumba's demands that U.N. soldiers enforce the premier's authority throughout the turbulent Congo.

BITTER LETTER

Hammarskjold decided to return to the 11-nation council for new instructions after Lumumba in a series of three bitter letters said he no longer had confidence in the secretary-general.

The fiery Congolese leader presented demands for sweeping U.N. help in putting down dissidents against his rule and creation of an Asian-African commission to take over Hammarskjold's supervision of the U.N. effort in the strife-torn area.

The roving police questioned scores of persons wearing U.N. armbands and searched their rooms.

U.N. officials said at least 10 U.N. personnel were being held by the police.

Hammarskjold, due in New York tonight, asked Council President Armand Berard of

11-Cent Drop Indicated In New County Tax Rate

$25 Salary Increase Granted Employees

Marin County's tax rate for the current fiscal year will be around $2.12, a reduction of 11 cents from last year's rate, it was estimated last night by assistant auditor-controller Michael Mitchell after final budget action by the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

This last decision by the supervisors granted a flat $25 a month increase in salary to all county employees effective Oct. 1.

The move not only met demands by Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos and others for special consideration for lower-paid employees this year, but it turned out to entail a saving of $7,000 as compared with the 5 per cent increase on which computation of the preliminary budget had been based.

Total cost of the raise for 570 employees was set at $135,000.

After decreeing the raise, which gave a break to taxpayers by bringing a reduction in property tax due to the saving as compared with the contemplated 5 per cent, the board set 10 a.m. Thursday as its time for receiving final budget figures and acting on the final budget.

A letter read to the board after 6 o'clock last night, and following an all-day equalization hearing, included information from County Administrator D. A. Jensen on effects of the across-the-board method of increasing salaries.

Jensen said the salary ordinance would have to be amended because dollar amounts specified in the salary ordinance would change, and that to let the raise be effective Oct. 1 would permit 30-day publication of the ordinance. This was eventually moved by Supervisor William D. Fusselman, seconded by William

ON EVE OF TRIAL

Family Impressed With U-2 Lawyer

MOSCOW (AP)—Francis Gary Powers' family says it is confident the U-2 pilot's Soviet lawyer will do his best to help the flier.

Powers, whose reconnaissance jet was brought down 1,200 miles inside the Soviet Union May 1, goes on trial on espionage charges tomorrow. The Soviets says he has admitted his guilt; the penalty for espionage ranges from seven years to death.

The Soviet lawyer who will defend Powers is Mikhail Ilich Griniov, presiding officer of the Judicial Council, a Soviet version of the legal aid societies in America.

After an initial conference with Griniov yesterday the pilot's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Powers of Pound, Va., said: "We have confidence he will do all possible to help our son."

Alexander W. Parker, Richmond, Va., lawyer who is with the pilot's wife, Barbara, said the meeting was "highly satisfactory."

"Everybody was impressed by his Griniov's sincerity, his apparent ability and frankness. We were favorably impressed with him and his desire to cooperate. He has a heavy job, a great job, and he is going to give the best he has got."

CITY-COUNTY PLAN

Supervisors Receive Major Roads Report

A report outlining plans for county aid to cities with streets of countywide importance was submitted to the Marin County Board of Supervisors today from a committee of city and county representatives.

Copies are to be turned in to the nine cities involved as preliminary to an early joint meeting between supervisors and city councils.

"It's a good report," commented Chairman Walter R. Castro, to which Supervisor William D. Fusselman added "Wonderful—but now let's consider the practical side; is it realistic?"

Public Works Director Marvin W. Brigham, remarking "The whole problem is the amount of money and how to get it," agreed to clear legalities with the county counsel and set up a county-city meeting as soon as possible.

Only Belvedere of Marin's 10 cities is not involved, County Administrator D. A. Jensen said, "Belvedere doesn't have any main thoroughfare."

As the plan was finally submitted, it covers a total mileage of 75.88 miles—29.05 in nine cities, 46.83 miles in the county—deemed to comprise a county thoroughfare system" for which construction financing ought to be placed "on a more uniform and equitable basis."

Mileage in each area was calculated with two lanes as basic unit, doubled for four-lne highways and tripled for six. By this, San Rafael, with 5.46 actual miles, would have an "adjusted mileage" of 10.07 leading the city list in these particulars and also in its percentage of 9.9.

Others follow in order as to actual miles, and percentage based on adjusted mileage:

Novato 4.73 miles, 7.3 per ment; San Anselmo 2.48 miles, 5.5 per cent; Mill Valley 4.77 miles, 5.2 per cent; Larkspur 3.02 miles, 4.9 per cent; Corte Madera 3.02 miles and Sausalito 2.21 miles tied at 4.4 per cent each; Fairfax 2.05 miles and 3.1

2 Thugs Beat, Rob Houseboy, 60, In Marin

Two thugs, accompanied by a blonde girl, beat and robbed a 60-year-old houseboy on a Kentfield road, sheriff's deputies learned yesterday.

They took $62 in cash and a $375 wristwatch from Pedro Bravo of San Francisco.

The attack took place as Bravo was walking to the house of his employer Osborne White at 136 Cypress Road, Kentfield.

Bravo said a car pulled off Poplar Drive in front of him and the two men jumped out.

While one man pinned the houseboy's arms behind his back, the other punched Bravo in the face and stomach.

They took his money and watch and sped away in their car. Bravo said a blonde teenage girl was also in the car.

County May Tighten Employment Policy

Marin County may tighten its broad policy of employing persons with some physical handicaps, because of the insurance factor.

The board of supervisors was told today by its insurance advisor, Walter W. Carter, that the physical disability of employees would affect the county's insurance rate if any of them had an accident as a result of the disability.

"Of course, the insurance company can't tell an employer to let someone go, but we want to bring this fact to your attention," Carter declared.

He said, for example, that the company would look with disfavor on an automobile accident caused by the heart attack of an employee who was known to be susceptible to heart attacks.

At the same time Carter informed the board it must pay an additional $16,964 premium on its 1958-59 public liability policy because of a bad accident record that year. And the coming year's premium will be raised about $5,000 for the same reason.

Carter cited three suits still pending against the county from that fiscal year. A suit for damages to a home on White's Hill caused by settling of the land beneath it because of the collapse of the county's fire road tunnel through the hill; a half-million-dollar suit brought by the estate of a woman who died after falling onto a heater in the county jail, and the suit by a boy who suffered a broken leg in an accident at Nick's Cove.

The additional premium is charged under the policy's "retrospective clause." The supervisors accepted a policy with such a clause after all the county's liability insurance was cancelled several years ago because of a bad accident record.

The supervisors authorized renewal of the county's liability and other insurance policies for the 1960-61 year and agreed to meet Thursday morning with Carter, the county physician and others about its handicapped employee policy.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee unanimously approved today an urgent administration request for an extra 100 million dollars in foreign aid funds to help the strife-torn Congo.

SOVIETS DECIDE TO ATTEND U.N. DISARM SESSION

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Sovet Union decided today to attend the opening session of the U.N. Disarmament Commission along with other members of the nine-nation Soviet bloc.

The Soviet bloc countries decided at the last minute against boycotting the meeting after failure of their campaign to persuade Asian-African and other so-called neutral nations to stay away.

Crash Stops Prisoners' 'Cycle Spree

Two work furlough prisoners from the Marin County Jail jumped on a motorcycle and led police on a high-speed two-mile chase through San Rafael and San Anselmo this morning.

Three police cars converged on the pair when the motorcycle rammed into the back of a car stopped at Oak Knoll and Florence Avenues.

Charged with reckless driving and resisting arrest were Michael Rogers, 19, and Walter V. Burke, 21. Rogers, the driver, was also charged with driving with a revoked license with prior convictions.

The joy-riding pair was clocked at 50 miles per hour going west on Greenfield Avenue about 7:15 a.m. by Officer Leo Schwab.

With red light and siren, he went into pursuit. He said the motorcycle tried to escape by running stop signs and whipping around corners.

Sgt. Carl Selby of San Rafael and Officer Donald E. Nelson of San Anselmo joined in the chase.

It ended in the rear-end collision when the motorcycle was unable to avoid a stopped car.

Probation officials said both men should have been on their way to work (Rogers to San Rafael and Burke to Sausalito) under the work furlough plan whereby the prisoners return to jail in the evening.

Both men were in jail for

SELECTED—Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer (right) has been selected by President Eisenhower to be chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, succeeding Air Force Gen. Nathan F. Twining (left) who requested retirement for health reasons. (AP Wirephoto)

Army's Gen. Lemnitzer Named Chief Of Staff

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Lyman Louis Lemnitzer, a crack military negotiator-diplomat with an impressive array of battle decorations, has been tapped for the Pentagon's top service post.

President Eisenhower yesterday selected the bemedaled Army general to be chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The appointment is subject to Senate confirmation.

Lemnitzer, who became a qualified Army parachutist nine years ago when he was 51, would succeed Air Force Gen. Nathan F. Twining who has requested retirement because of poor health. No date has been set for Twining's retirement.

Lemnitzer became chief of staff of the Army a year ago last month. He had promised the Senate he would always give Congress and the nation his professional judgment on Army or defense needs, even if his views clashed with budget limitations.

A few months earlier, when many thought U. S.-Soviet relations were on the upswing, Lemnitzer advised that there had been no change in the Communist objective of lulling the free world with a peace offensive and then hitting it with a clenched fist.

It was 18 years ago that Lemnitzer, then commanding a aircraft brigade, first won official recognition from the then Gen. Eisenhower. He was appointed assistant chief of staff at Allied headquarters in London, where plans were being made for the invasion of North Africa.

In October 1942, Lemnitzer went with Gen. Mark W. Clark on a secret submarine mission to North Africa to negotiate with French army officers. The landing which followed was virtually unopposed.

Later in the war Lemnitzer was chief of staff of the British-led Allied command in the Mediterranean. He also took part in secret negotiations leading to the surrender of Italy and the capitulation of German forces in that area.

The general's military decorations give a quick indication of his service background. His European-African-Middle East ribbon of World War II includes six battle stars. The Legion of Merit was awarded for his part in the submarine mission to North Africa. He wears an oak leaf cluster to the Legion of Merit and the Distinguished Service Medal. His Silver Star was won for gallantry in action in Korea. Six foreign nations have honored him with decorations.

After World War II, he was one of the original planners of the mutual defense assistance program that provided military might for the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance.

Born in Honesdale, Pa., Aug. 29, 1899, Lemnitzer was graduated from West Point in 1920.

MORE REPUBLICAN SOLIDARITY SEEN

Sen. Goldwater Says Conservatives Volunteering to Help National Ticket

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) reported today that Republican conservative leaders from around the nation have been volunteering to do what they can for the GOP national ticket.

Goldwater, head of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said the offers of help were increasing his party's chances for a November victory.

Some leaders in the camp of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the GOP presidential nominee, had been afraid the conservatives might sit on their hands during the campaign.

Nixon returns to campaigning tomorrow with a speech at Greensboro, N.C.

On the other side of the political fence, Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, said he expects Senate passage this week of a minimum wage bill.

The Senate begins voting today on the measure, but it was still uncertain when a major test on the measure might come. The bill sponsored by Kennedy would increase the present $1 an hour wage minimum to $1.25 in three steps and would extend coverage to an additional five million workers.

Although the wage measure was formally before the Senate, several hours were spent Monday in debate on a proposal for medical care for the aged. Kennedy and many Democratic members are backing the party's platform plan to put such care under social security coverage.

While the Senate debated these two politically important issues, the House convened Monday after its convention recess.

Rep. William E. Miller (R-N.Y.) introduced a bill including the Democratic platform plank on civil rights. Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said there wasn't time to take up the issue and termed the move by Republicans "to make political hay."

Nixon was to meet today with actress Helen Hayes, actor George Murphy and other representatives of a Celebrities-for-Nixon Committee. The vice president also was to confer with a personal advisory council assembled largely by James R. Shepley, on leave from Time magazine to help the GOP campaign. The group is made up of eight college faculty members, a university president, a researcher, three businessmen and a banker.

FOUND IN BRITAIN

Colonial Documents Tell Of Jersey Revolt Plan

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) —Important documents from Colonial America, including plans for a New Jersey revolt against George Washington, have been uncovered by a Rutgers University professor.

Dr. Richard P. McCormick said yesterday he discovered the papers by doing some historical detective work for eight weeks in the British Isles. The history professor was seeking material to be used for New Jersey's tercentenary celebration in 1964.

Digging through musty records in England, Scotland and Ireland, McCormick found a wealth of material, including many previously unknown records of early New Jersey history.

McCormick was particularly interested to find a proposal for a South Jersey Rebellion against George Washington.

He discovered a letter from Daniel Cox, a wealthy Trenton resident and police official in Philadelphia, to British Gen. William Howe. It was dated February, 1778, when Washington's troops were encamped at Valley Forge.

Cox suggested the British arm the South Jersey Tories (British sympathizers) so they could revolt.

Sleeping Girls May Have Brain Damage

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI) — A doctor said today the "sleeping beauty" sisters may have suffered brain damage and become drug addicts from the barbiturates given to them by their mother.

Dr. Lester Adelson, assistant coroner, said although the two girls seem to be all right the possibility remains that the drugs will have ill effects.

SECRET LOVE

Investigators in the bizarre case, meanwhile, shifted the center of attention from the mother, Mrs. Lillian Fratantonio, to her secret lover in an effort to find out how the 29-year-old woman obtained the barbiturates to drug the girls into long periods of sleep.

They arrested the unnamed boy friend shortly after Mrs. Fratantonio admitted the illicit romance.

Police said Mrs. Fratantonio and the boy friend worked at a Cleveland drug store at one time. They said the drugs may have come from that drug store, adding that the barbiturates were not easily obtained.

LONG SLEEP

The mother used the barbiturates to drug her daughters, Bernadette, 3, and Venita, 5, into long periods of sleep which baffled doctors for almost a year.

Police theorized that Mrs. Fratantonio gave the drugs to her children as a form of self-punishment for her love affair.

Mrs. Fratantonio was released from St. Ann's Hospital yesterday and taken to the police station where she was arraigned on child neglect charges. She was released on $1,000 bond pending a hearing Friday.

TAX RATE

Gnoss, and unanimously passed, the property tax cut being dealt with similarly.

Jensen's letter said that the $25 raise figure was suggested because the median salary approximates $500, and $25 is 5 per cent of this.

"This would mean," the letter continued, "that the lower paid employees, such as practical nurses, would receive 10 per cent; the highest paid county employees would receive 2 per cent. The raise for deputy sheriffs would amount to approximately 6¼ per cent."

Mitchell commented that "the $25 adjustment has great appeal to the rank and file of county employees," adding that he himself had been recommended for a personal raise but "I would go for an across-the-board increase."

The Jensen letter concluded that part-time library employees would receive 5 per cent rather than a flat amount.

Mitchell's tax rate estimate awaits detailed computation, but he has been keeping running totals of the various departmental approvals. Action by the board on salaries gave him what he considered a reasonably firm figure of $2.12. Last year's rate was $2.23.

CONGO

France to fix the date for the session so a delegation of four Congolese ministers would have time to arrive from Leopoldville—probably Wednesday.

Hammarskjold turned down a request from Lumumba that he hold up his departure 24 hours so the Congolese delegation could accompany him.

Lumumba's anger with Hammarskjold stemmed from the secretary-general's strict observance of Security Council instructions that the U.N. troops should stay neutral in international political disputes.

The premier had counted particularly on the U.N. force to put his government in control of Katanga province, whose mines furnished most of the Congo's pre-independence wealth. Premier Moise Tshombe proclaimed the province independent.

NEW POST MARK — Letters written by San Quentin inmates are now postmarked with the word "Tamal" like the sample shown here. It doesn't mean the writer has left the prison. Contractor Denies Road Death Charge

San Rafael painting contractor Albert W. Ellis pleaded innocent yesterday to a felony hit-run charge in the highway death of a British war bride in Tamalpais Valley.

Judge Jordan L. Martinelli of Marin County Superior Court took the case under submission on the basis of police reports after Ellis waived a jury trial.

He will hand down his decision next Monday.

The 40-year-old Ellis who lives at 333 Locust Avenue is free on $1,575 bail.

He admitted giving Mrs. Helen Bell, 39, of 307 Tennessee Aveue a ride on June 23. He said she jumped from his pickup truck.

Investigators said Ellis returned to where Mrs. Bell's body lay three times before notifying the sheriff and giving a fictitious name over the telephone.

Schreiber was taken by United Ambulance to San Rafael General Hospital. He was reported to have suffered a cut scalp and a possible concussion. He was in satisfactory condition today.

Corte Madera Passes Budget Of $329,945

A preliminary 1960-61 budget of $329,945 was approved without protest last night by the Corte Madera Town Council. The final budget will be considered and the town tax rate will be set at ar. adjourned meeting at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 25.

Bids were opened by the council on the town park fill and drainage project, but no contract was awarded because the bids were higher than anticipated. Contractors bidding were Brown Eli, Ghilotti Bros. and Russ Lauterwasser. The bids, which ranged from $45,000 to $55,000, were based on cubic yards of earth.

A contract with Armco Drainage and Metal Products of Berkeley was approved in the amount of $4,368 for supplying materials for a maintenance storage building in the town corporation yard. The do-it-yourself building would be put together by town forces.

Another contract with George S. Nolte, consulting civil engineering firm, was approved at $2,500 for a drainage master plan and for unit 1 of Marina Village and engineering estimates on the reconstruction of Harbor Drive from the end of the street to Paradise Drive. Plans and specifications will be drawn up from the estimates.

The council raised the salary of town attorney John B. Ehlen from $175 to $200 a month.

ROADS

per cent; Ross .82 mile, 1.6 per cent.

County mileage was 46.83 miles working out at 53.7 per cent.

The plan was calculated for five years. Each year, by conference, there would be establishment of priorities. Each city would get its money share during the five years, but annually it would take up what it could match equally.

An accompanying letter from Jensen explained that financing would follow a plan used in Orange County, employing Highway Users Tax revenue. City representatives leave it to the county to say what it can give, but Jensen felt that for the 1961-62 fiscal year, $729,461 would be available. After deducting other county road requirements, 51 per cent or $372,025 would remain for the urban road program, Jensen estimated.

Of this, the county would spend its 53.7 per cent, $199,777, on the county sections of the program; the cities would get 46.3 per cent of $172.248 which they would match equally to give a total of $544,273 for the first fiscal year.

Jensen backed the program at attacking the most serious deficiencies in heavy traffic areas first, considering each route as a whole and building to uniform standards for its while length regardless of city boundaries in a coordinated city-county program.

Ranches Win Court Round In Labor Row

OROVILLE (UPI) — California growers have won two opening-round victories in their court fight to force the State Department of Employment to refer workers to ranches picketed by the AFL-CIO farm labor union.

Butte County Superior Court Judge A. B. Ware announced yesterday, after a day-long hearing, that he would issue a writ of mandate requiring the department to send pickers to the Tom Bowers peach ranch near Gridley.

In Yuba County Superior Court, Judge Warren Steel made almost an identical ruling in another case. Steel issued an order requiring the department to refer workers to two Yuba County pear orchards owned by the Di Giorgio Fruit Corp.

(The AFL-CIO Agricultural Workers organizing committee has long since withdrawn its pickets from the Di Giorgio property. But Steel said he chose to review legal briefs submitted and rule in the case because of the "public interest" involved.)

On Active Duty

Maj. Charles W. Overhouse of 1028 Las Gallinas Avenue, San Rafael, was one of 23 officers and enlisted men of the 7621 Transportation Unit Training Center of the Army Reserve in San Francisco, who is now on two weeks active duty at the Army Transportation Command at Fort Eustis, Virginia.

Dope Charges Dismissed Against Pair

Felony narcotics charges against two Sausalito men were dismissed yesterday by a Marin County Superior Court judge when the district attorney refused to disclose an informant's name.

Judge Jordan L. Martinelli dismissed the charges of possession of marijuana against Charles H. Farley, 25, and Robert A. Kempf, 28.

Officers from the Sausalito police and the Marin County District Attorney's office said they had found a quarter of a pound of marijuana on the pair's ark at 811 Humboldt Street when they raided it last March 11.

Following the two mens' arraignment last month, their attorney, Richard Gladstein, asked for dismissal because the name of the person who had tipped off the police was not disclosed.

In accordance with the highly controversial Cahan decision —which requires an informant to be identified—Judge N. Charles Brusatori (now on vacation) ordered Dist. Atty. Roger P. Garety to reveal the name by Aug. 15.

Garety declined and stated yesterday "I feel it is not in the interest of community law enforcement to disclose our informant's name."

He said it would hamper other narcotic investigations in the future.

The U.S. Office of Education reports a 10.4 per cent increase in the number of college juniors majoring in science and mathematics between the 1957 and 1958 school years.

GOP Leaders Doubt Passage Of Ike Bills

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Republican Congressional leaders gave President Eisenhower a glum report today on prospects for enactment of the legislative program he sent the reconvened session of Congress.

They told him Democratic leaders apparently intend to "jettison" many of the president's legislative requests including his calls for action in farm, distressed areas and housing fields.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Ill.) and House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck (Ind.), reported this to newsmen after a two-and-one-half hour session with the president.

They presented these other highlights of the White House legislative session:

1. A limited medical care bill for needy aged persons, as approved by the Senate Finance Committee, is one the administration could live with.

2. The president has no intention of paring down his 21-point legislative program to include only a few "must" bills.

Last Sunday was the busiest of busy days for the Golden Gate Bridge.

For the fourth time since June, a new traffic record was set with 74,121 vehicles crossing the bridge, officials announced.

The previous high mark was 73,771 on Sunday, July 24. Lowest day of traffic was Dec. 9, 1937, when 3,878 vehicles made the crossing.

LAW IN ACTION

Right To Counsel Is Basic To System Of Justice

(This column, prepared by California attorneys so you may know about our laws, appears regularly in the Independent-Journal).

Right to have a lawyer to speak for you in a criminal case is basic to our system of justice. Failure of a court to allow counsel may amount to a denial of a fair trial.

But our law has not always given us a right to counsel.

At early common law no accused person could have counsel against the king. Later English law would let a lawyer help the accused on one point or another, but he could not bring out facts or present general arguments. For example, the English court denied Mary Queen of Scots, a lawyer although English was not her native tongue.

Only after 1695 did the right to counsel become a part of the common law. Then in the crime of treason, the accused got an advance copy of his indictment and a list of the jurors. He could also subpoena witnesses and defend himself through counsel. This right extended soon to other crimes.

The American colonies took over the right to counsel: Before 1700, Connecticut allowed counsel in criminal trials. Other colonies followed soon after. After the revolution the right to counsel became a part of our constitution.

The constitution also gives you the right to a speedy and public trial. More, it calls for a jury trial in the state and district where the crime took place. Formerly the British took colonists to England for trial where they had a hard time getting witnesses and defending themselves.

Under the constitution you have the right to know the specific charges against you, so that your lawyer can prepare your defense well.

None of your other rights amount to much unless you have somebody on your side who knows how to evoke and protect them before a fair court.

In Exercise

Two Marin County Navy men reecntly took part in a joint Canadian-American anti-submarine warfare exercise off the west coast of Canada and the United States. They were Dennis J. Boehme serves with Patrol Squadron 18, and Durnham is aboard the destroyer Ingersoll.

Neutral Diplomats Confirm Soviet Exodus From China

LONDON (UPI) — A mass departure of Russian experts, technicians and their families from Red China is under way, neutral diplomats reported from Peiping today.

The reports tended to support weekend dispatches in the official Yugoslav newspaper, Borba. Those dispatches, sent to Borba from Peiping, implied that the departures indicated some sort of trouble between Moscow and Peiping.

Yugoslavs recalled that the withdrawal of Soviet experts from Yugoslavia preceded the break of the Kremlin with the Belgrade regime in 1948.

Western diplomatic sources considered the latest developments as indicative of trouble between the Communist allies, but cautioned against any assumption that a break in the Moscow-Peiping axis was imminent.

The number of Soviet experts in Red China is not known in the west. Estimates put it at between 5,000 and 6,000, engaged in various branches of China's economy, industry and on some projects for development of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes.

A similar number of Red Chinese students and researchers is understood to be training in Russia.

Today's diplomatic dispatches said Soviet technicians and advisers were leaving the Red Chinese capital in unusually large numbers, homebound for Russia.

No official reason has thus far been offered, nor have the Chinese reported publicly the departure of the Soviet experts.

Th move coincided with reports that at least some of the Chinese undergoing training in Russia were returning home.

Little credence was given to suggestions that the mass departure of experts from Red China was due to the expiration of their contracts.

Diplomatic observers believed the move signified a further cooling off in the strained Sino-Russian friendship.

But some Communist affairs experts interpreted this mass departure as a more serious development in the Moscow-Peiping axis.

URBAN VS. RURAL STRUGGLE

Senate Reapportionment Rouses Most Emotion On State Ballot

Second in a series on ballot propositions.)

By JERRY HARRELL

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The urban-rural struggle for control of California's Senate, smoldering for the past 12 years, has burst into open conflict again.

The voters will be asked in November, as they were in 1948, to decide whether the upper house of the legislature should be apportioned on the basis of population instead of geography.

The emotion-packed reapportionment issue probably outweighs even the big water bond issue on this year's ballot when it comes to intensity of feelings. Beneath the rival rallying cries—"taxation without representation" and "reckless Senate-packing scheme"—is a basic question about representative government:

Should the Legislature be constituted half on the basis of population and half on the basis of geography—as in California's present modified federal plan—or strictly on population?

The Assembly now is apportioned by population, with 80 districts of roughly equal population. The big cities, notably in the south, dominate the house. Los Angeles County has 31 Assemblymen.

The 40-member Senate, however, has been apportioned since 1931 on the so-called federal plan, or a geographical basis. There is no more than one senator from a county. The biggest senatorial district contains three counties.

Los Angeles County, with six million voters, has one senator. So does the district made up of Mono, Inyo and Alpine Counties—combined population 15,000.

Nothern California — usually considered to be the area north of the Tehachapi Mountains—dominates 32-8. It has about 40 per cent of the population.

Proposition 15, known as the Bonelli plan for Los Angeles Supervisor Frank G. Bonelli or as the 20-20 plan, would realign the Senate between north and south on a line roughly south of Fresno. On the basis of that line, the north would get 20 senators and the south 20.

Los Angeles County would get seven senators; San Diego, Orange, San Francisco, Alameda and Santa Clara, two each; San Bernardino would share two with Mono and Inyo.

The voters in the past have turned down plans to apportion the Senate on a population basis.

In 1928, the current federal plan was voted in. The count 437,003 to 363,208. It was upheld by a similar margin in a 1928 referendum.

A 1948 effort to change to population apportionment was defeated by one million votes.

Backers of Proposition 15 charge "cow county domination" and "taxation without representation."

"The legislature should represent the people and not trees," says the official argument in favor of the realignment.

Opponents reply that Proposition 15 is a "reckless Senate-packing scheme" conceived by Los Angeles supervisors in their thirst for additional taxes.

Others have charged that it is a move to wreck the state water plan and grab control for the south.

It isn't real population apportionment, but an arbitrary, divisive plan cutting the state in half with a modern "Mason-Dixon" line, they say.

Voters already are being bombarded with emotional appeals to sectionalisms.

"Smash this politically inspired Senate-packing scheme," cry the opponents.

"One senator cannot adequately represent six million people," say the proponents. "The 1926 law is indefensible. Change it. Vote 'Yes' on 15."

You have until November to think it over.

American motorists are expected to drive a total of 700 billion miles this year, according to the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

FCC Approves Increase In Rates For Telegrams

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission yesterday approved an average 8 per cent increase in telegram and money order rates.

The new rates—asked for by Western Union Telegraph Co.—are effective tomorrow.

The rate increases will boost the cost of a 15-word telegram by five cents and a 50-word day letter by 10 cents. A 50-word night letter would cost an average of 10 cents more. Money orders will cost five cents more for amounts under $100.

The commission turned down a request from the General Services Administration to investigate the rate increases which affect both public and government messages sent between states. The administration said the 16 per cent increase for government messages compared to an 8 per cent increase for public messages was "unjustly discriminatory."

But the commission ruled that Western Union needs the additional revenue which the new rates will bring in immediately to offset wage increases already in effect.

California Wire Rate Hike Asked

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Western Union asked permission yesterday to increase telegraph rates in California.

General manager Ralph D. Saylor told the California Public Utilities Commission the increase would conform with one asked of the Federal Communications Commission for interstate traffic, effective tomorrow.

The proposed schedule for California calls for an increase of five cents each in the basic rate zones for full-rate telegrams and night letters, and 10 cents for day letters, with proportionate raises for additional words beyond a basic number in each class.

Test Of Broemmel Appraisal Program Fizzles At Meeting

South Marin's long anticipated test of County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel's cycle reappraisal program fizzled late yesterday when with four unanimous votes the supervisors, sitting as a board of equalization, rejected appeals on two Sausalito and two Mill Valley property parcels.

The outcome was clear within the first 15 minutes of an all-day hearing which did not end until 5:22 p.m.

But complaints by Walter Lord, husband of Mrs. Mary A. Lord in whose name the property title lies, and Mill Valley attorney Leonard Bjorklund indicated that to the last neither was convinced of the board's basic point — that to appeal in equalization it is necessary to cite precisely located and described similar properties to those on which appeal is made.

Seeking to bring a broad test of the assessor's power to assess section by section over a four-year period. Bjorklund and Lord named no directly comparable properties in their petition.

Assistant county counsel E. Warren McGuire lost no time in challenging this lack and in asking that the board require that some sort of appeal case be made. But against this, Bjorklund's opening move was to try to put Broemmel forward as witness.

The board clearly saw things McGuire's way but, with McGuire finally concurring, decided to let the appeal be presented as it saw fit. At the same time there were repeated statements by board members that it lacked power to rule legally, that Broemmel was an elected official empowered to choose his own methods, and that this was only an equalization proceeding in which injustice to specific property could be corrected.

"No case has been made," said Supervisor William D. Fusselman in seeking to leave early before the noon recess.

This jarred Bjorklund and Lord into an hour of busy work before the session reconvened at 2 p.m. and they then cited several parcels which seemed to them comparable to the Lord properties, and which were in San Anselmo or other areas not yet reappraised.

McGuire brought out that they couldn't identify or describe these properties and found only similarity in earlier assessed values, not the sort of showing which has been required in other equalization proceedings; and after some hours of this Fusselman at 4:45 p.m. once more started to leave.

"I'm ready to vote no," he said, adding: "I said you hadn't made your case and that questioning Mr. Broemmel would make no difference. I'm in complete sympathy with one phase of this thing but . . . "

Bjorklund, agitated, interrupted that he "didn't want to go ahead if this particular supervisor has made up his mind," but Fusselman said he was remaining anyhow because both McGuire and the board thought it necessary to keep a full board to preserve all legalities.

Then came another round of the squabbling which had been intermittent through the day, which Supervisor Vera Schultz stressing that "you (Bjorklund) know nothing about the physical details of the property you have cited so we couldn't establish anything if we stayed till midnight," and Bjorklund complaining that "we came seeking justice and we haven't received it."

Chairman Walter Castro said, "When you came in you had absolutely nothing — we have sat all day and we couldn't act if we sat here for 30 days."

Fusselman said that in some appeals, citation of a single other property has been enough to win modification of a too-high assessment but that these petitioners had "relied entirely on an academic thing"; William Gnoss said that "you haven't proved anything to us"; Marshall compared the presentation to "a broken record," and finally Mrs. Schultz as South Marin representative moved in turn that all four appeals be denied which was done.

Fusselman then created a final sensation by commenting that "there is an inequity but what you tried to do today isn't going to cure it—you didn't give enough evidence to let us do what I would like to have done."

Startled at this unexpected support, Lord asked "Would you join me in a suit?"

"As a supervisor that might not be in order," said Fusselman, "but if subpoenaed I'd be glad to state my opinion."

Broemmel was questioned through most of the day off and on, making no sweeping claims that he didn't have other courses open but sticking to his point that the cycle method was best for Marin under existing circumstances.

"You don't have complete equity but you have reasonable equity," he summarized. To reappraise the whole county annually would, he said, cost close to three-quarters of a million dollars against a $122,000 yearly bill now.

Again and again Broemmel and McGuire and the supervisors stressed that in any event, the current proceeding couldn't try Broemmel's program but merely check up as to whether the Lord property was being overvalued.

On that point, which Bjorklund and Lord both made clear was of no interest to them, Broemmel said that over-all the Lord properties had comparatively experienced "a reduction as compared with others of their area because their average is up 11.3 per cent as against an 18 per cent average for the area."

Lord ended the day with a series of statements stressing that Bjorklund's approach had been in accordance with his instructions and that he felt "dismayed that the board has not been impressed by elements I instructed him to present as important arguments. . . . The tax relief to which I feel entitled is very small, by comparison with others."

Hunger-Striking Felon Being Fed Intravenously

A convicted killer on San Quentin Prison's Death Row, who has refused to eat for the past seven days, has been hospitalized and is being fed intravenously, it was reported by the prison today.

The striker, George A. Scott, 38, who has been watched closely during his food strike by prison doctors, told authorities he was despondent because he feels his wife has deserted him.

Scott's wife came to see him last month from Long Beach where she was residing. She visited her husband two days, July 27 and 28, and told him at that time she was going to find a place to live in southern Marin, reported Associate Warden Dale B. Frady.

Scott, who is scheduled to die in the gas chamber Sept. 1, has not heard from his wife since, Frady said.

Scott, who was a participant in a recent all-Death Row food strike, is at the prison on a stay of execution. The stay was granted by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas pending a decision on whether the court will grant a review of the case.

Scott was condemned to die for a sawed-off shotgun murder in which he put the muzzle of the weapon against the stomach of Hollywood film executive Kenneth Savoy, 35, and blasted him during a 1958 bar robbery in Hollywood.

Scott also has a record of attempted suicides with razor blades. While he was in the Navy he inflicted abdominal cuts on himself, said Frady, and also tried to slice his own throat twice, once in jail awaiting trial for a robbery charge in San Diego County, and again at a sanity hearing during the Savoy murder trial. All the wounds were superficial, said Frady.

Scott last month petitioned the State Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus on charges that the judge at the murder trial in Los Angeles "exerted coercion" in instructing the jury.

Scott charged that Superior Court Judge Leroy Dawson's instructions, which did not allow testimony concerning Scott's alleged insanity, were prejudicial.

Tenants Council Will Discuss Home Financing In Marin City

The Marin City Tenants Council set Sept. 19 as a tentative date for a tenants meeting to hear discussion on ways of financing homes under the redevelopment agency.

At this meeting also, according to council member Hardy Westmore, tenants will be asked to vote on an amendment to the constitution enlarging the council from five to nine.

The council appointed a committee, consisting of Westmore and Mrs. Rose Sweeney, to meet with Bert Klahn, executive director of the housing authority, to discuss: (1) the proposed master television antenna, (2) relocation of families, (3) relocation of two churches presently situated in the redevelopment area and (4) a request to put weights and covers on garbage cans to prevent dogs from upsetting the cans and cluttering the grounds.

Westmore said the council agreed to send applications to all Marin City organizations to invite them to send a non-voting member to meet with the tenants council.

It also announced that the tenants council will attend a Sept. 10 meeting of the ministerial alliance of Marin City to discuss the proposed Marin City church sites.

The 49 states in the Union during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1959, collected a total of 15.8 billion in taxes, an increase of 6 per cent over 1958, reports the U.S. Census Bureau.

POLITICAL DISPUTE

Demo Keeping Time On Nixon In Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The political dispute over which presidential candidate spends more time in the Senate chamber continued today with a disclosure by Sen. Stephen M. Young (D-Ohio), that he's using a stop watch to clock Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Timekeeper Young announced the results to the Senate: Nixon spent two hours, 55 minutes and 40 seconds in the Senate chamber last week.

Young's report touched off an hour-long squabble over absences of Nixon and his Democratic rival for the presidency, Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

The Ohioan said he would not have bothered with the stop watch if Republicans had not opened fire on Kennedy for being away from the chamber. But Young recalled that he previously reckoned that Sen. Robert C. Byrd (D-W. Va.) had presided over the Senate for 104 hours, compared with 24 hours for Nixon, during the last session of Congress.

When Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) came to Nixon's defense, Sen. John Pastore (D-R.I.) demanded that Republicans cut out the "cheap political propaganda."

Pastore said the GOP senators are trying to "drag, drag, drag" the session to keep Kennedy in Washington and "Nixon on the stump."

"They don't want this body to vote on minimum wage," shouted Pastore, shaking his finger. "Anything to keep John Kennedy here until Nov. 9."

Sens. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) a foe of a minimum wage boost, Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.) and Prescott Bush (R-Conn.) got into the battle briefly.

Goldwater said it would be better if everybody went home.

"The public has begn to get wise that this political rump session is doing nothing," the Arizona senator said.

Visitors in the galleries laughed heartily when Pastore said Keating would still be against Kennedy if the Massachusetts senator had responded to 150 out of 149 roll calls.

Keating said Nixon was absent because he was participating in high-level policy making.

"He has not been a sit-in vice president or a leather-bound vice president," Keating declared.

Satellite To Be Visible Here For Two Days

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Echo communications satellite will make three passes over the San Francisco Bay Area tonight and six tomorrow. If skies are clear the aluminum-coasted sphere, 100-feet in diameter, should be seen throughout Northern California.

When it is directly overhead the big globe may be visible for more than 10 minutes. When it is lower in the sky the appearance will be briefer.

It is easily seen with the naked eye. Since it is 1,000 miles up it appears to move slowly but actually is traveling more than 15,000 miles an hour.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration prepared this table for the Bay Area:

Lack Of Quorum Forces House To Adjourn Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lack of a quorum—217 members—forced the House to adjourn today for the second consecutive day.

It was in session five minutes, and didn't even go through the formality of calling the roll to determine the absence of a quorum, as was done yesterday when it adjourned after a 30-minute session.

Again it was Rep. H. R. Cross (R-Iowa) who raised objection to proceeding without a quorum. House rules allow any member to insist that a quorum be on hand if business is to be conducted.

The rules force adjournment until the next day if a quorum is not present. A quorum is a majority of the membership.

Labor Federation Calls For More Equitable Tax Laws

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The California Labor Federation today called for a tightening of tax laws to close loopholes which favor the few.

"The new administration and congress taking office in January must reverse the trend toward increasingly disproportionate and burdensome federal taxes borne by American workers," said one of the first statements of policy adopted by the federation's convention as it settled down for a week-long session.

The convention urged an increase in the individual income tax exemption from $600 to $1,000.

"Much has been heard as to the alleged unfairness of federal income tax provisions which supposedly tax the income of the very wealthy at 91 per cent," said the policy statement. "But not a word is heard from these sources as to the escape devices which enabled 268 top individuals enjoying average incomes of $2,900,000 in 1956 to reduce their actual tax payment to only 36.3 per cent."

The convention also approved its executive council's prediction of a 1961 recession "as the culmination of the near-stagnant rate of economic growth during the Eisenhower years."

Speaking of high interest rates, the convention said "this dangerous condition has been nurtured by the Eisenhower administration's tight-money policies and its penny-wise but pound-foolish attitude towards programs sorely needed by our people and the economy."

Also approved were policies calling for repeal of both the Taft-Hartley and Landrum-Griffin labor acts and their replacement by a law based on the principals of the old Wagner act.

The convention also asked Congress to establish minimum standards whereby each state would have to pay unemployment compensation equal to one-half of average weekly wages.

Two of the AFL-CIO's top officials were to address the convention later in the day. They are C. J. Haggerty, former executive secretary of the California federation and now president of the national union's Building and Construction Trades Department, and Nelson Cruikshank, director of the union's Department of Social Security.

Finn Twin Ends Hunger Strike

LOS ANGELES (AP)—George Finn, the hunger-struck Finn twin, has decided he'd rather get dinner than thinner.

George, jailed for failing to appear on an old traffic warrant, ended his hunger strike in its sixth day yesterday after a long talk with his priest.

George had charged he was illegally confined and vowed he wouldn't eat anything until they let him out. He is serving a 15-day sentence.

Here's Great News for Garlic Lovers

There's an entirely new salad oil on the market that makes it ridiculously easy to put the wonderful flavor of fresh garlic in your salads without your fingers ever touching a garlic clove. It's Girard's Garlic Seasoned Salad Oil, with much better flavor than any garlic salt or powder. Some say it's even better than fresh garlic. Try it.

FAMILIAR STORY

Decision Delayed On 'Stilt' Houses

It was an old familiar story at last night's meeting of the Belvedere Planning Commission. Subject: Development of the tidelands. Decision: Postponement.

The commission faced a two-pronged attack. The Belvedere Properties Co., seeks to build homes on inundated land on Belvedere's west shore. Proponents of an initiative petition seeks to have the property rezoned for recreational use to prevent "houses on stilts."

The petition had been submitted to the city council at its July meeting. City Attorney William H. MacKay ruled that such rezoning was not within the jurisdiction of the city council, and consequently the electorate could not initiate such a measure. The matter was tabled.

The council then reconsidered its action, and voted to ask proponents to submit the initiative to the commission.

This was done last night. No longer an initiative measure, the petition has become a request from attorney Carl Hoppe backed by 205 signatures asking the planning commission to consider revising the ordinance in question.

The petition was backed by Morse Erskine, attorney for developers, who termed the possible rezoning "an outrage," taking away valuable property from the owners. "Although it is partially covered with water, it is still valuable property assessed at $250,000 on which taxes have been paid," he said.

Commissioner E. K. Allison said there was still 15 per cent of the electorate to be considered and that the commission must treat the matter in an orderly fashion.

Cmdr. H. H. Horne, president of Belvedere Property Owners, said that the petition signatures were gathered from all parts of Belvedere in less than a week. Russell Rice, representing the Belvedere Properties Co., asserted many did not know what they were signing.

The commission, before taking action, will refer the petition to the city attorney to determine its legality. The legality has been questioned by Chairman George Goddard on the grounds it would limit the developing rights of the owners. If the petition is found illegal no further action will be taken.

Goddard holds that most people prefer to see the beach remain as is, but don's know how to keep it that way.

The commission requested attorneys for both sides to submit briefs to the city attorney. It also requested a map from proponents of the petition indicating precisely the land in question. Paradoxically plans for another development on inundated land was presented to the commission last night by the Belvedere Land Co. without commotion.

Architectural plans for the first unit were approved. This is the Cove apartment development on both sides of Beach Road. Those on the water side would be on pilings. Only grumble of disapproval came from Goddard who wanted one of the units moved in order to preserve the view of San Francisco from the end of Cove Road. However, architect Warren Callister convinced him that architectural unity of the group of apartments would be lost and Goddard acquiesced.

Near to approval is the first unit of the west shore development which is not on inundated land. A final map incorporating minor changes previously requested by the commission was submitted by the Belvedere Property Co. This will be reviewed and a decision will be made at an adjourned commission meeting at 8 p.m. Monday.

Also on the agenda for the adjourned meeting will be a request by the San Francisco Yacht Club to build 26 additional berthing facilities. Approval will depend upon the number of parking spaces the club is able to provide.

According to the zoning ordinance, two for each of the proposed 174 berths are required. Through a misunderstanding a building permit had been issued, and work already has started. This will be delayed pending decision of the commission.

Marinite Shows Art In Berkeley

Ten large oil paintings by Larkspur artist Gwen Stone are featured in the current show at the Jackson Gallery, 2072 Addison Avenue, Berkeley. She shares the August showing with East Bay artists Alden Curtis, a teacher at the University of California, and Leland Staven of Berkeley.

Miss Stone is a two-time prize winner at the Marin Art and Garden Fair, with an honorable mention in this year's show, and a blue ribbon last year. Her work has been shown in the San Francisco Museum of Art, and an abstract oil will be in the art show of the California State Fair at Sacramento opening Sept. 1.

The Jackson exhibit will be on view through Sept. 1.

WIFE SURVIVES THREE DAYS OF DESERT HEAT

BAKER, San Bernardino County (AP) — The wife of a rock hunter has been rescued after surviving the brutal heat of the Mojave Desert three days without food or water. But her husband is still missing.

Mrs. Catherine Vieke, about 46, of Los Angeles, said she and her husband, Frederick W., were stranded 23 miles north of Baker Friday when their car got stuck in volcanic ash. She said her husband started out on foot for Baker, 120 miles northeast of San Bernardino.

Yesterday a sheriff's deputy found Mrs. Vieke and the couple's car on a power company road. She was unconscious.

Temperatures there have exceeded 110 in recent days. Mrs. Vieke revived briefly but again lapsed into unconsciousness.

Farmer Organization Urges 5-Point Emergency Program

CORNING, Iowa (UPI) — The National Farmers Organization today proposed a five-point program "as emergency stopgap legislation to aid the current farm situation."

The organization said Bob Casper, Winterset, Iowa, its national vice president, was in Washington, D.C., to present the proposals to Congress.

They include:

1. A "grant in kind" to farmers who have failed to raise a normal crop because of adverse weather conditions and who have exhausted normal credit possibilities.

2. Additional funds "to existing agencies" to present credit resources for farmers.

3. A voluntary farm land withdrawal program.

4. A ban on allowing grain out of Commodity Credit Corp. inventory at less than 100 per cent of parity unless it is in danger of going out of condition, in which case it should be replaced from open market stocks.

5. Limitation of agricultural product imports to no more than the average of the past five years.

The statement by the organization, which has its headquarters here, said the five-point program generally agreed with the farm positions of "both political parties and major farm organizations."

Oren Lee Staley, Rea, Mo., organization president, said, "Congress is in session and if everyone is serious about their proposals, now is the time to enact legislation on which there is complete agreement."

One of the organization's goals is to get a "fair" commodity price for the farmer through collective bargaining for price levels.

Ship To Make Global Mercy, Peace Mission

SEATTLE (UPI) — A gallant lady who won her battle ribbons as a hospital ship in the Korean conflict is getting outfitted here for a mercy and peace mission around the world.

She is the Hope, formerly the Consolation, which the People-to-People Health Foundation will send to countries throughout the world. Her staff will operate her as a complete school and 400-bed hospital to bring the skills and techniques of the American medical and health professions to people of other nations.

HUGE CLASSROOM

The 520-foot Hope is berthed at Puget Sound Bridge and Drydock Co. here, where she is being equipped with such facilities as a modern maternity ward and pediatrics center; a huge classroom for medical and clinical instruction which would rival that of the finest colleges and a closed circuit television system which will be used for instruction in surgery and advanced medical methods.

She will also have a modern center for treatment of eyes, ears, nose and throat, a complete dental clinic, and medical, dental and X-ray laboratories.

TO LEAVE AUG. 23

The gleaming white vessel, refurbished from stem to stern, is scheduled to depart here Aug. 23 for San Francisco where medical stores, text books and other supplies will be put aboard.

First stop on her world mission will be Djakarta, Indonesia where she is to arrive by mid-October after leaving San Francisco Sept. 23. Her permanent staff of 15 physicians, 20 nurses, 10 technicians, two dentists, two dental technicians and other personnel will spend most of the first year in various parts of Indonesia.

Volunteer teams of up to 35 physicians will be flown to the ship on a rotating basis for tours of four months. Part of the medical staff will work on shipboard and others will form mobile inland teams.

The Hope will visit countries by invitation only. Besides Indonesia, invitations have been received from Viet Nam, Korea, Okinawa and Pakistan. The program will be geared to the specific needs of the countries visited. This will enable staff members to concentrate on the most serious and pressing problems of each country. The prime objective is to "teach rather than treat."

Financing for the Hope, whose name stands for 'Health opportunity for people everywhere," will come entirely from private sources. Contributions have been received from business, industry, labor, and thousands of groups and individuals throughout the nation. Cost for the first year is estimated at 3.5 million dollars, including salaries and operational expenses.

The ship itself is furnished by the Navy from its mothball fleet.

Utility Rolls Approved For 99 Cities

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state board of equalization has approved separate utility rolls for the 99 California cities which still do their own assessing and collect their own property taxes.

The assessed value on the city rolls approved by the board yesterday totaled $437,450,000—an amount 3.3 per cent higher than the aggregate 1959 total on the same rolls.

The board also announced that public utility assessments became final yesterday when it confirmed the assessed values adopted for county tax purposes two weeks ago.

At the same time, the board adopted a $3,783,455,000 evaluation of privately owned public utility' properties—an assessment roughly four per cent higher than the total valuation set a year ago. Nine protests received in the past two weeks were rejected.

Driver education courses are taught in 63 per cent of the nation's public high schools attended by 67.7 per cent of the nation's public high school students.

Let's Do More For Visitors Who Stop To Visit Mission

Despite the fact that it is not too well marked and it is hard for strangers to find, Mission San Rafael replica continues to draw an increasing number of tourist visitors.

California's mission chain is known the world over for its historic significance. It is natural and proper that visitors should want to visit the missions—in a sense, make pilgrimages to them.

The other day we saw a family fairly early in the morning, stopping to look at the mission in San Rafael.

They were a typical tourist family traveling in a heavily-laden station wagon. Father had camera gear slung over his shoulder (and over his loud Hawaiian shirt). Mother, in pedal pushers, was herding a couple of sub-teen youngsters.

As they strolled from their cars toward St. Ralphael's they weren't exactly sure which was the Mission replica and there was little obvious information to guide or inform.

That brings us to our point.

We think it would be helpful to visitors to have an informative sign on Fifth Avenue in the immediate vicinity of the mission. The information could plainly state (so as to be visible from a car, in case the occupants didn't care to get out) the essential facts of the mission; i.e. when it was founded and by whom, its special purpose, when it was secularized, and when the replica was finally erected.

The burden of arranging for the sign certainly should NOT fall upon St. Raphael's parish. It should be the responsibility of all the people of Marin. And we could readily understand and sympathize if St. Ralphael's parish objected to having an outside sign erected at the main entrance to the parish grounds. If such proved to be the case— if the project could not be accomplished to St. Raphael's satisfaction at that spot—it conceivably could be accomplished directly across the street where a large sign might serve to screen off the not-too-attractive courthouse parking lot.

The Marin Tourist Bureau would do well to give such a project a high priority.

And it would be well too to provide direction signs so travelers can find their way from Highway 101 to the Mission and back to the highway again.

Visitor Makes Home Here

The Arizona Hooded Oriole which until a few years ago was only a rare visitor in Marin and which bird books say is not found north of Fresno and Santa Barbara, has been nesting here for the past several years.

These attractive birds nest in baskets of palm fibers which are hung among the fronds of Washington palms. They have been frequenting those in Larkspur during the nesting season.

Two ways to distinguish it from the more common Bullock Oriole are by its head which has no black patch on top and by its more slender bill. Both are pale orange, black and white in the males, and lemon yellow, gray and white in the females.

Orioles are quite valuable as eaters of many kinds of insect pests. However, they do like a bit of fruit now and then which does not add to their popularity among gardeners and fruit growers.

It is with real pleasure that we welcome our last Oriole residents from the south. May they thrive and multiply to add yet another touch of feathered beauty to the Marin scene.

Wives Needed In All Emergencies, Especially Those Around House

NEW YORK (AP)—The handiest thing to have around the house in an emergency is a wife.

There's nothing else makes a man feel safer.

The other morning I was sitting in the living room putting on my shoes. I had one shoe tied and, breathing hard, was about to put on the other when I happened to glance up at the window.

There, as usual, sat our cat, Lady Dottie, on the air-conditioner. She loves to perch on top of the machine and bat at the window glass whenever a bird, butterfly or moth flies near.

I yawned and started to turn my gaze away, but something pulled it back. What was wrong?

A second quick glance told me at once. Lady Dottie was not inside on the air-conditioner. She was outside on it.

Someone had left the casement window partly open. The cat had climbed out. Now she crouched on the small steel surface of the air-conditioner gravely looking at the ground — nine floors below. If a bird flew by and she made a pass at it, I knew she'd be a goner —nine lives and all.

But it wasn't really the fate of Lady Dottie that worried me. I could hear my daughter, Tracy, singing in the bathroom. I knew that if anything happened to her cat, well—

"Here, kitty!" I called weakly, rising. Lady Dottie heard me and crouched lower.

Panic overcame me. My knees weakened. Still holding one shoe in my perspiring hand, I clumped out to the kitchen where my wife was annoying two eggs with a fork in the skillet.

"The cat — the window — Tracy," I mumbled.

Frances took one look at my face and then brushed wordlessly past me into the living room. She hesitated a split second, then moved calmly and slowly toward the window.

"Nice kitty," she said softly, "nice kitty."

SHE REACHED her hand unhurriedly out and began to stroke Lady Dottie's back.

Frances gripped her firmly, and hoisted her back inside.

Then we heard a cry. Tracy had come to the doorway and seen the rescue. She rushed over, took the cat in both her arms and buried her face in the warm fur.

"YOU KNOW, if a robber or someone like that broke into this house, I'd bust him right in the nose," I said, lamely. "But when I saw that cat out there, I — well, I —."

"It's all right, Rover," said Frances. "I understand."

REMEMBER WHEN

10 YEARS AGO

A 500-home five million dollar subdivision at Ignacio is planned for rental to Hamilton Air Force Base personnel by the Claude T. Lindsay Co., homebuilders, and Anderson and Rowe, plumbing contractors.

A Hollywood woman, Mrs. Marguerete Staude, lost a pigskin bag containing $1,500 worth of jewelry from a parked car near Sausalito but went on home saying nothing and apparently under the impression that such things are routine.

20 YEARS AGO

Sausalito dedicated a new $15,000 fire house at Caledonia and Johnson Streets. The two-story structure is to house three fire trucks, a chemical engine, the chief's official car, quarters for the men and a place to play checkers.

E. O. Onstine of San Anselmo had built a replica of the Golden Gate Bridge entirely of burnt matches—70,000 of them. It was on display at the National Hobby Show on Treasure Island. Friends collected the matches.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Stinson Beach Wants Isolation

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

We are outraged at your editorial today (Aug. 8) urging the substitution of "welcome" signs for "keep-out" signs at Stinson Beach. Those of us who commute daily to S.F. are fully aware that the route is dangerous . . . tortuous, if you will. We make this 50-mile run without rancor because our little town of 700 people is relatively peaceful in its beautiful setting on Bolinas Bay. If there were some legal way to keep people out of here who don't belong here, most of us would endorse it.

We are invaded weekly by bands of loud-mouthed young men and women from God knows where who bring beer cans without number, bales of other revolting garbage, obscene conversation and a lack of manners and finnesse that is shocking.

Monday mornings we have to start cleaning up the beaches again, picking up the broken glass, empty cans, gathering up the remains of the illegal fires, trying to bury the more obvious evidences of illicit romancing, and in general wondering just what the hell we are going to do about these outlanders.

Rather than run a super highway through here, we would like to close off the roads except to bonafide residents. The peculiar splitting of the beach facilities here do not permit confining these nature lovers you feel such sympathy for to the State Park area. Our attitude is that San Francisco has miles of beach along the Great Highway, and we wish the outlanders would stay out of West Marin permanently.

Only recently has a costly series of robberies in Stinson Beach been apparently solved by the apprehension of some San Francisco men. Some of us were ready to start riding shotgun at the edge of town had not these nocturnal visits been stopped soon.

There is something socially sick about the concept that every beauty spot in the area must be made into a park and reserved for the PEEPUHL. The honest fact is that not all people are equal from a financial standpoint; and one of the small rewards that goes with working to get a higher standard of living is the feeling that your sacrifices and money can buy a little exclusive beauty and quietness.

The masses do not now and will not ever at any time in the future really appreciate anything they didn't have to work and pay for themselves. Most of the poor people you would have descend upon us now and in the future don't and won't contribute through taxation their share of maintaining these beauty places.

We're for bigger KEEP OUT signs.

Campaign Issues Fuzzy, How Are Voters to Make Their Choice?

WASHINGTON (AP) — This Presidential campaign will leave many voters so fuzzy on major issues their choice will turn on personality, history, and, to some extent, on prejudice.

This is the fuzzy area:

1. Democrats and Republicans agree on the need to step up the economy. Democrats say the national product must increase by at least 5 per cent. Republicans don't set a figure.

How is a voter going to visualize something so vast and vague as the national product, especially in percentages?

2. In foreign affairs both parties agree communism must be countered. But how is it to be done in a way recognizably different from what's been done in the past? Both sides will have a time trying to make this clear.

3. The parties disagree on whether our defense is good enough. The Democrats say it isn't. Both promise to increase it. In this field, full of secret information even politicians can't discuss, how can a voter know who's right?

LIKE IT OR NOT, there will be some religious prejudice for and against the Roman Catholicism of Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate. The best the unbigoted can hope for is that it won't be a decisive factor.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Kennedy's opposite number on the Republican ticket, says he hopes religion won't be a factor at all.

Then there's the racial problem.

Northern Negroes are not happy to see Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas running for vice president on the Democratic ticket, even though he was the one who steered this century's only two civil rights laws through Congress.

While the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People considers the civil rights records of Kennedy and Nixon excellent, it says Johnson's performance in this field over the years is unacceptable.

Yet many white Southern Democrats, angered by the strong civil rights plank in the Democratic platform, will probably persuade themselves to go along with their party just because Johnson is on the ticket.

They don't have much choice. The Republicans' civil rights promises are pretty nearly as strong as the Democrats'.

BUT THIS YEAR voters should have a chance—unlike any in this country's presidential election history—to make up their minds about the candidates through a close-up look.

Kennedy and Nixon are supposed to have several face-to-face debates on the issues on TV. This is where voters who are vague on the issues and not prejudiced will have their grand chance to choose on the basis of personality.

Those voters left fuzzy on the issues and who remain unswayed by personality or prejudice probably will have to fall back on their general attitude toward the two parties. This means a belief, often not clear, that the history of this or that party indicates it is the one to be preferred.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

That rich Texan has bobbed up in the news again. This time he's rumored to have popped up in Montego Bay, Jamaica, with 14 suitcases, nine sets of skis, a toboggan, and 14 Eskimo dogs. The customs inspectors at the Montego Bay airport were aghast, of course. "This is a tropical island," explained one weakly. "All this equipment is useless here. Our mean temperature is over 80 degrees. Snow is absolutely unknown."

"Sure, sure," agreed the Texan genially. "I know all about the lack of snow now but cheer up, boys, I'm sending it in with the rest of my luggage."

Interviewing prospective secretaries, a boss not yet too old to dream, was dazzled by the most beautiful applicant he ever had seen. "You're hired," he declared unhesitatingly — then added, "By the way, would you happen to have an old passport photo of yourself I could show my wife?"

Sonoma-Marin Fair Gives Picture Of A Nice Slice Of American Life

The Marin Art and Garden Fair prides itself on its green grass, combination of shade and leafy sunlight and an air of sophistication.

There are flower arrangement, some by youngsters, puppet shows, balloons, a fairy queen giving out goodies, a kiddy playground—but most of the exhibits are by and for adults.

There are ceramics, rock collections, too perfect model gardens with no weeds, snack bars, antiques, a ballet, and on and on in the cool greenness of Ross.

The Sonoma-Marin District Fair is a pig-and-cow fair for the youngsters in the wide open spaces of the Petaluma fairgrounds.

THE 4-H EMBLEM and the Future Farmers of America signs are outnumbered only by the carnival rides and the swarms of youngsters. Some are deadly serious as they show their years of work represented by a fat lamb, heifer or giant porker.

They are a handsome bunch of kids. Watch six of them lined up with their mares, trying to steady them and listening to the philosophizing of the judge. He's mincing no words for the gals at the end of the line who "tried to look like beauty queens when I came by. Your 'sposed to be showing the horse."

He compliments some on the quiet self control of themselves and the horse, gives another a going over for not being dressed very neatly.

IN A BARN Bill Gallagher of Sonoma County was gently jouncing a bucket of soapy water up and down at the backside of his heifer, looking abstractedly at nothing. In the bucket was the heifer's tail, being washed to snow-whiteness.

He took out a brush and went on cleaning the fly chaser, finished by hosing off the soap. He was ready for the show ring.

The loudspeaker blared out "Sam, please call John and tell him to get to work."

In the poultry building, the judge was taking cackling chickens out of their cages, one by one, to feel, gently pull and pummel as he judged.

The day before, kids and their giant white rabbits with black wiggling ears and sniffing noses were lined up before the judge. A 4-H mother or two hovered in the background.

A RABBIT WOULD make a dash across the table, looking like a heavy weight matron sniffing a bargain. She would be stopped by a kid's quick hand.

The kids' faces were nervous, deadly serious. The decisions were made, and a tall youngster made an embarrassed move to shrug off his mother's congratulatory embrace. Tiny kids struggled to get pounds of rabbits back to the quiet of their cages.

See both of the fairs and you're glad both kinds survive, the Art and Garden Fair, a unique event. The Sonoma-Marin fair, common across the U.S. and typical of another way of life.

REDS EXPAND INFLUENCE

Peaceful Co-Existence Is Really Cold War Strategem

By K. C. THALER

LONDON, Aug. 13 (UPI) — Whether it's Cuba or the Congo, Korea or the Middle East —wherever there's unrest and for whatever reason—Soviet Russia plays its international game to formula.

Today the focus is on the Congo, and Cuba. But these two sensitive points on the world political scene are only stages in Moscow's broad policy of capitalizing on trouble.

The strategy follows a pattern developed and tested since, in its present form, it was first tried on a major scale in the Middle East five years ago.

Ever since its more overt moves during the Korean war, the Kremlin has carefully adjusted its tactics of full-scale Communist and political infiltration and penetration around the world.

A strategy of bloodless extension of Soviet influence has operated in place of outright aggression. It has developed fast, along with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proclaimed policy of peaceful competitive co-existence.

THIS IS HOW it operates:

Once the Kremlin has spotlighted a likely soft spot it opens up its campaign with a host of friendly approaches and implied or outright offers of support—as in Cuba, or the Congo. The campaign is conducted in nearly every single case under the banner of support against "colonialism" and "imperialism."

In the case of newly emerging, inexperienced nations, Russia loses no time in offering recognition. Delegations are soon invited to Moscow to acquaint themselves with Soviet institutions and to meet Soviet leaders. Students are offered scholarships and Moscow steps up its broadcasts to the area.

The next step usually involves the offer of closer cultural relations, the setting up of so-called friendship societies, including the dispatch of "lecturers" and of literature.

Then follows the offer of closer trade relations, with Moscow showing willingness to barter and to buy up the country's produce for which world market prospects may be difficult at the time.

In the case of Egypt Russia bought the cotton harvest for years ahead. In the case of Cuba the Soviets were ready to buy sugar.

THE MAIN AIM is to get an official government delegation of the selected nation to start talks in Moscow. Then often follows a Soviet offer of long-term credits at low interest — usually two-and-a-half per cent and a pledge that no political strings are attached to the deal.

Once the trade accord is signed the Soviets lose no time in sending their representatives to the country, to establish a permanent mission. In its wake come the "experts" and "technicians" and offers for some major development scheme which carries the prospect of perpetuating the hold on the country's economy.

The tactics also provide sometimes for arms delivery. Where the need for arms is the more immediate problem, Moscow is always ready to supply them.

Finally, the leader of the nation thus selected for Soviet attention is invited to Moscow and given the red carpet treatment, and Khrushchev accepts an invitation for a return visit.

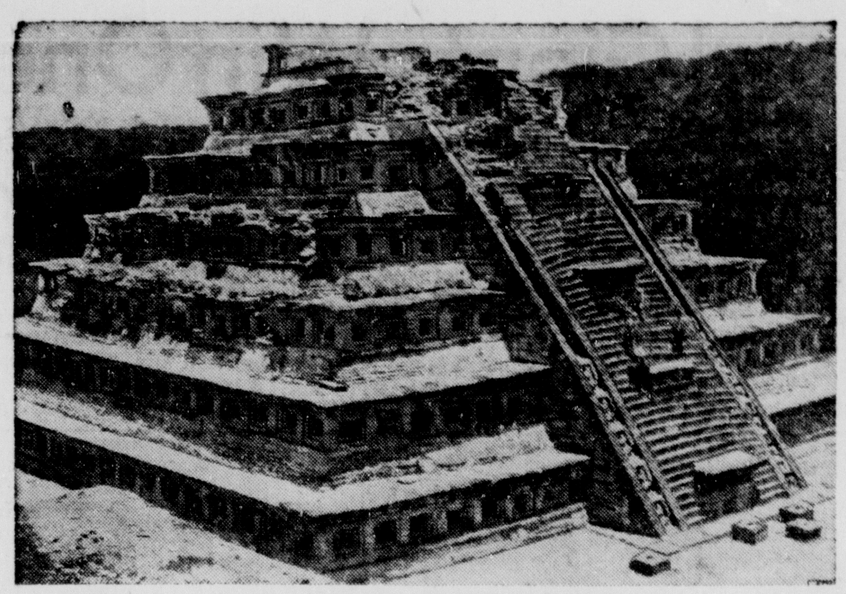

This pattern has been followed by Moscow in nearly every case since the peaceful co-existence strategy got under way.

It is now being applied in the Congo and in Cuba.

East San Rafael Zone Hearing Slated Sept. 5

Public hearing on the controversial rezoning of East San Rafael will be held at 8 p.m. Sept. 6, the city council decided last night.

The councilmen took action on four other rezoning matters following lengthy public hearings.

Changing the 10-acre East San Rafael triangle between Rafael and Canal Streets and Bellam Boulevard from commercial-light industrial to apartment was recommended by the planning commission.

It has been disputed for months, being approved twice by the planners and rejected by the city council.

Upholding the protest petition of 16 Alexander Avenue residents last night, the council denied rezoning to allow access from Alexander Avenue to Robert Doughan's commercial property at 2114 Fourth Street.

They overruled the planning commission on the grounds that a fence and the street provided the only buffer between commercial and residential properties.

Rezoning of six lots on Rafael and Canal Street (south of the proposed triangle change) was approved from commercial-light industrial to apartment use.

A request to rezone two parcels on Marquard Avenue near West End from residential to apartment was turned down because the street is too narrow for apartment traffic.

Despite arguments by an attorney representing 30 property owners opposed to rezoning a 5,000-square-foot parcel fronting on Bay View Street between Marin and D Streets, the city council approved rezoning last night.

The lot was an addition to property already owned by Paul O'Pizzi who said he plans to build 90 apartment units. The area is completely surrounded by residential lots.

"This appears to be the only logical means of developing this property," explained Mayor John F. McInnis.

Councilmen sent the matter of rezonng California Division of Highways' property on Francisco Boulevard and Highway 101 frontage road back to the planning commission to consider unclassified zoning.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—An exhibition of Japanese automobiles, motorcycles, motor scooters and bicycles went on view at the Japan Trade Center today for 10 days.

Council Votes New Name For Frontage Road

A frontage road across the highway from Terra Linda became the Redwood Parkway last night with the unanimous approval of the San Rafael City Council.

It was a compromise between Fairchild Semiconductor Corp., backing the name of Redwood Highway, and nine firms about Professional Center Parkway which favored Civic Center Drive.

Nobody liked the current name, frontage road, for the stretch which branches off of Highway 101 in North San Rafael.

NAME OF ROAD

Also bantered about last night were Redwood Boulevard, avenue and way.

The California Division of Highways had said the road would be called "Frontage Road" unless renamed by the City of San Rafael.

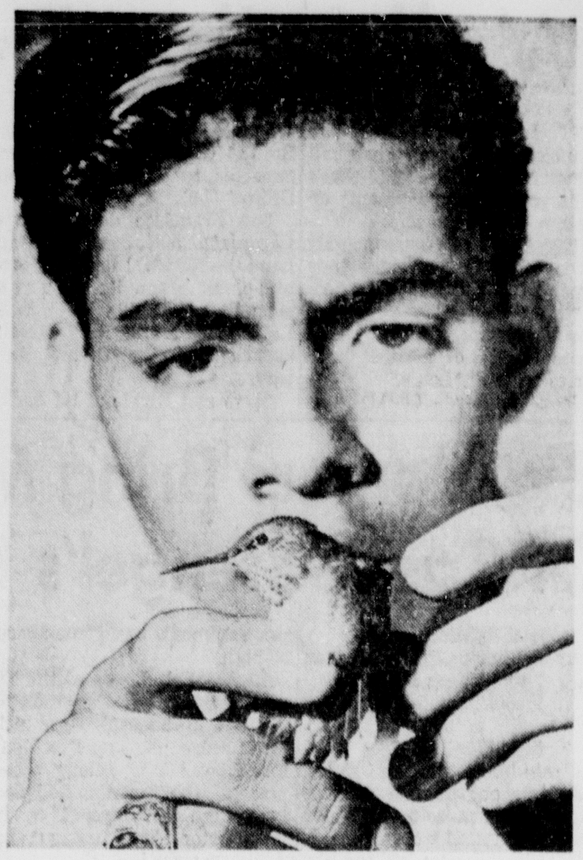

In other matters, the city council was willing to approve the installation of traffic signals at Third and A Streets and Third and B Streets last night but balked at tying up the intersection of Fifth Avenue and E Street.

SIGNALS PROBLEM

They referred the problem back to the traffic committee to reconsider the need for signals at the Fifth Avenue intersection. The signals would cost $4,000 per intersection.

Contract for resurfacing almost every street in San Rafael that has not been retopped in the last three years was awarded to the E. A. Ford Co. of San Anselmo.

Its bid of $30,878 was almost $2,500 below the city engineer's estimate. Four bids were received.

Pilots Taking Simulated Trip To Moon

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Two Air Force pilots were on their way today in a simulated 17-day round trip to the moon.

Capt. William D. Habluetzel, 36, Ingleside, Tex., and First Lt. John W. Hargreaves of Castle Air Force Base, entered a space cabin at the School of Aviation Medicine at Brooks Air Force Base yesterday afternoon.

If the two officers stay in the cabin 14 days, they will break a simulated space trip record set in February by two enlisted men.

The experiment is one of a series being conducted by the school to determine the effects of space travel on the human body, and to prepare equipment for man's flight into space.

Long Time To Wait

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — It will be a long time before Conway Webb, 38, can legally drive again in Alabama.

City Judge William Conway fined Webb $125 and suspended him from driving for 100 years after he was found guilty of driving while intoxicated and driving without a license.

WHAT EFFECT ON CITY?

San Rafael To Seek Highway 101 Study

How will the state's plan to widen Highway 101 overpass through San Rafael effect the city?

That's what the city council wanted to find out last night. It directed City Manager Dan Anderson to get proposals from consultants firms on a study of the problem.

What will be the consequences of the new on-off ramps on the San Rafael traffic situation?

"We want to know who could make such a study, how fast and how much it would cost," declared Mayor John F. McInnis.

The city council last night also decided to inspect the proposed new offices for the public works, planning and building departments in the basement of the E Street School.

Norris Rawles, superintendent of public works, reported that the school board had given its approval for the city to use the three large rooms.

It would cost the city about $1,400 a year to rent the rooms and $6,000 to renovate them, he estimated.

The informal inspection will be held at 4:30 p.m. tomorrow.

A letter containing 11 questions about annexation effects from the directors of the Terra Linda Community Services District was considered by the council last night.

McInnis told representatives from Terra Linda that all the questions had been answered before and are a matter of public record. He refused to discuss them further.

"It is my policy to remain impartial among groups for and against annexation of Terra Linda," he said. 'It is the residents decision."

The council also gave informal approval to a plan to build a one-acre city playing field at Davidson School.

Joseph Rodota, recreation director, said the school board has agreed to build and operate the field in cooperation with the city.

He estimated the cost at $4,000 and said work on it should begin by October.

It is part of a three-year program, he explained, which would eventually establish two fields at Davidson School, and one each at Sun Valley and the high school.

The council asked Rodota for a report on the city's expenses in the over-all program.

In other matters at last night's council meeting:

1. Hiring of two firemen, Robert E. Marcucci of 160 San Francisco Boulevard, San Anselmo, and J. S. Bush of San Francisco, at $447 a month, was approved.

2. Morrison F. Green of 56 Meadow Avenue, San Rafael, was employed as an assistant building inspector effective Sept. 1 at $500 a month.

3. Placed on the payroll as a maintenance man was Patrick James Kelly of 72 Merrydale Road, San Rafael, starting at $407.

4. The resignation of Paul Bettini from the advisory council to the park and recreation commission because of business pressures was accepted by the city council.

Ongaro Plumbers Trip Oaklanders In State Tourney

Hub Nine Remains In Running As Field Is Cut To Four Clubs

By KARL BARRON

The Ongaro Plumbers kept up their win streak last night, dumping the 88c Stores team of Oakland from the California Semi-pro Tournament 7-5, and last year's champions, Nesbit Masonry, held on with a 3-2 win over another Oakland nine, Acme Carpet.

When the dust cleared away at Albert Field, four teams remained of the twenty-four that started on July 29th. The two undefeated clubs, Sabella's of San Francisco and Hatzell Radio of El Cerrito, go tonight, and the Plumbers will tangle with Nesbit on Wednesday, each with a loss, and each needing the win to stay alive.

San Anselmo's Don Nance held the Oaklanders to two hits until the middle of the fifth. Then the big right-hander advanced 88c second baseman Carl Gordon from second to third on a wild pitch, and wild pitched Gordon home, making it Ongaro 6, Oakland 3.

Nance got Bill Beamon on strikes, walked catcher Matt Kellum-Rose, Ernie White flied out to right, and Jessie Washington drew a walk. Manager Dom Boccabella sent in veteran Willie Franco, who struck out the next batter and ended the threat.

LEAD HOLDS UP

The six runs held up, as Franco allowed one in the sixth on his own error, and one in the seventh when Kellum-Rose, who had walked, scored on a smashing triple by Washington.

In the sixth, with the 88c Stores at bat, a rhubarb developed when relief pitcher Eneree Malone slammed into second baseman Don McGinnis to break up a double play. Malone was called out, and McGinnis went after him. Both teams piled on the field en masse, but the umpires and cooler heads among the players prevailed before the free-for-all could get going.

Ongaro's scoring came in the first, when Tim Reardon walked and scored on shortstop Don Lauters' double. Lauters led off the fourth by lifting one over the fence.

Oakland starter Bob Cunningham walked McGinnis, Bob DeRosa, playing left field, laid down a sacrifice to advance the runner, and catcher Lou Hass singled to drive in the run.

BIG FRAME

The big Plumber inning was the fifth, when Ralph Boccabella singled with one away, and, after brother John flied out, Cunningham gave successive walks to Lauters and McGinnis. DeRosa singled, and right fielder Pete Arrigoni followed up with a double. Before Malone took over and retired the San Anselmans, three runs and scored on three hits.

They tallied once more in the eighth when Reardon singled, moved on Ralph Boccabella's sacrifice, and was driven in by John Boccabella's single.

Acme Carpet's Lou Profumo held the San Jose Nesbits to five hits, but two walks and two of the hits in the eighth inning were all San Jose needed. After trailing 2-0, they racked up three runs, and right hander Ralph Romero retired the Carpetbaggers one-two-three in the ninth to also retire them from the tourney.

KEY WALLOP

The key blow that tied it up after Chuck Camuso and Lou Leonard had walked came from the bat of center fielder Tuck Halsey. Hitless in three times at bat, Halsey leveled one for two bases and two runs. Catcher Joe Winstead singled to score Halsey, making it three to two and game.

Acme chalked up 11 hits off Romero, but twice were cut off with fine double plays, and left seven men on the base paths.

Single Games To Complete Tourney Play

With but four teams remaining in state tourney competition, California Semi-Pro baseball commissioner S. L. (Brick) Swegle announced today that no more double headers will be scheduled for Albert Field. An announced twin bill for Thursday night will be cut to a single game, so that no one club has to play a doubleheader.

Tonight at 8:15 Hatzell Radio of El Cerrito goes against Sabella's of San Francisco with both undefeated, and the loser will still get another chance after this one.

Tomorrow one-time losers Ongaro Plumbers and Nesbit Masonry fight to stay in. The winner will play the loser of tonight's game on Thursday.

Rally Gives Victory To McPhail Club

Sparked by John Brookman's two out, two run homer in the bottom of the fourth inning, McPhail's softball team overcame a five run deficit to down Fort Scott 9-5.

Fort Scott scored twice in the first inning and three times in the second to take a commanding five run lead.

McPhail's chipped back with one in the second on Buzz Keaton's single and Ed Langen's double. They added their second in the third on Ron Derrington's single, stolen base and two fly balls.

In an explosive fourth, Ed McPharlan and Rich Curry walked, and scored on Bob Eggleton's double. Brookman then hit for the circuit for a 6-5 lead and the game. McPhail's added three more in the sixth, to cement the victory.

Brookman added a single and shared hitting honors with Keaton, each with two safeties. Others hitting safely were Nolan Wilson, Rich Curry, Bob Eggleton, Derrington, and Dick Johnson, with one apiece.

Well, What Do You Know! Giants Win One

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants won a baseball game last night—and that's quite an accomplishment on their present road trip.

The Giants have won only three of 15 games since they departed from Candlestick Park on July 31. They'll get another chance tonight in their second game of a three-game series with St. Louis.

Jack Sanford (9-11) was scheduled to see mound duty for the Giants. St. Louis was expected to counter with Bob Gibson (3-3).

San Francisco defeated the Cardinals, 5-3, last night to hand the National League's second-place team its fourth straight loss. Willie Mays, Willie Kirkland and Billy O'Dell spearheaded the Giants' victory.

Mays and Kirkland hit back-to-back homers in the first inning to give San Francisco a 3-0 lead, and Mays rapped another in the ninth inning. O'Dell allowed just two hits in seven innings—and then had to be rescued by Johnny Antonelli when he ran into his usual "bad luck."

The Cardinals scored twice in the bottom of the eighth inning, when what appeared to be a cinch double-play ball bounced high over the head of Don Blasingame.

Stu Miller came to the mound with two men on and was rapped for a single, which brought Antonelli from the bullpen. John walked Stan Musial to load the bases—and then ended the uprising by retiring Bill White and Curt Flood on pop flies.

Kirkland had a triple, along with his home run. Mays, Hobie Landrith and Joe Amalfitano also had two hits each.

O'Dell registered his seventh victory against eight defeats. Ernie Broglio, a 14-game winner, was tagged with his sixth loss.

The Giants picked up a little ground on all of the first division teams — but there's still plenty of mileage ahead. They trail league-leading Pittsburgh by 13½ games, the Cardinals by 7½, Milwaukee by 6½, and the Dodgers by 6.

Horace Stoneham, the Giants' owner, showed up to watch last night's game.

"I was going nuts listening and reading about those losses," Stoneham said. "So I thought I'd come on and see for myself."

Big Homers Bring Mantle Out Of Casey Stengel's Doghouse

By U.P. International

Everything's Jake between Mickey and Casey again.

All it took to patch things up was a pair of two-run homers by Mickey Mantle.

Those blows beat the Orioles, 4-3, last night, put the Yankees back in first place and enabled Mantle to saunter out of Casey Stengel's doghouse looking like a blue-chip winner.

Yanked from the line-up Sunday and publicly castigated by Stengel for failing to run out a double play grounder, Mantle was roundly booed last night when he came to the plate in the fourth inning. He promptly responded with his 28th homer off Jerry Walker to tie the score at 2-2.

Mickey came up again with one on in the eighth and Baltimore leading 3-2 as a result of Jackie Brandt's homer. He got a "life" when catcher Clint Courtney muffed his foul pop and took advantage of it by belting his 29th homer off loser Hoyt Wilhelm.

"I especially wanted to have a good game after what happened Sunday," Mantle said happily. "It can be rough if you have two bad days like that in a row."

Stengel was even more elated.

"He didn't have to run them two out, did he?" quipped the Yankee skipper. "I needed those homers and I'm glad Mantle got 'em for me. No sense going down the pennant race with a manager arguing with his players."

There had been some talk of Stengel possibly fining Mantle but Casey was in a mood to forget it after last night's performance.

"But that should be a warning to him that he can't do it," Stengel declared, meaning Mantle has to run 'em all out from now on or ante up.

Casey had plenty of reason to be happy. His pitcher, Art Ditmar, checked the Orioles on five hits and not only did Baltimore lose, but so did the Chicago White Sox. That dropped the White Sox and Orioles into a second-place tie and moved the Yankees a half-game ahead of both.

Rookie Bob Bruce of the Tigers limited the White Sox to two hits in defeating hard-luck Herb Score, 4-1, and President Eisenhower was among those present who saw the Red Sox crush the Senators, 11-3, in Washington. The Indians and Athletics were idle.

The Pirates retained their six-game lead in the National League even though they dropped a 4-3 decision to the Phillies. The Giants downed the second-place Cardinals 5-3, and the Reds swept a twi-night twin bill from the Braves, 5-3 and 4-0, in the only other scheduled games.

Score yielded only three hits in losing to the Tigers but wild-pitched two men home in the first inning and yielded a two-run homer to Al Kaline in the ninth.

Rookie Lou Clinton of the Red Sox hit a three-run homer and drove in five runs against the Senators.

Tony Gonzalez' pinch double with two out in the ninth inning scored Ruben Amaro and earned the Phils their victory over the first-place Pirates. Gonzalez blow came off reliever Roy Face, who was charged with the defeat.

Wally Post drove in four runs for the Reds with a homer and a bases-loaded double in their first game with the Braves and Frank Robinson hit a two-run homer in Cincinnati's nightcap victory. Jim Maloney and Bob Purkey were the winning pitchers.

The opener was enlivened by a fist fight between Eddie Mathews of the Braves and Robinson after the Cincy outfielder tried to stretch a double into a triple in the seventh inning. Mathews, who was banished, landed a punch on Robinson's right eye. In the nightcap, however, Robinson robbed Mathews of an extra base hit with a spectacular eighth-inning catch.

All-Stars, Nicasio Divide Twin Bill

Nicasio and the Marin Tavern All-Stars divided their softball doubleheader at Nicasio Sunday, the hosts winning the opener 1-0 and the All-Stars copping the nightcap 8-2.

Big Nick Kobseff drove home the winning run in the opener with a single through the pitchers box. Dick Johnson was the winning pitcher, giving up two hits. The All-Stars' Earl Lowe also pitched a two-hitter but both came in the same inning to produce the run. He struck out 13.

Jay Leatherwood pitched the All-Stars to victory in the second game with a four-hitter while striking out nine. The All-Stars banged out 11 hits.

Scanlon Meets Chico Santos In Richmond

Bobby Scanlon, Irish lightweight now living in Fairfax, returns to Bay Area boxing when he takes on Chico Santos of Oakland in a scheduled 10-round match tonight at Richmond Auditorium.

Scanlon hopes to keep busy the next several months.

He already has asked Richmond Promoter Jimmy Cosenza to get him another fight in two weeks.

But first he must beat Santos, a clever, elusive boxer who has won six of his 10 bouts since coming to this country from Portugal.

One of Santos' victories was a knockout over Bobby Hicks, who had racked up 17 straight wins in the Pacific Northwest.

SNAPS SLUMP

Scanlon, who was on a losing slump following setbacks to Paoli Rosi and Johnny Gonsalves, bounced back strong in his last fight to defeat Jackie Donnelly, lightweight champion of New York.

A six-rounder and three fours complete the card.

John Cate, Oakland lightweight, meets Hank Nito of San Francisco in the six round semi-windup.

The four-round prelims are as follows: Joe Williams vs. George Demers; J. C. Huggins vs. Willie Gill; Richard Cunningham vs. Jimmy George.

Elorde, Gomes In Repeat Tomorrow; Title At Stake

Junior lightweight champion Flash Elorde of the Philippines meets the man he dethroned, Harold Gomes of Providence, R. I., in a return fight at San Francisco tomrrow night.

The 15-rounder from the Civic Auditorium will be telecast (ABC-TV, 7 p.m.) nationally, but blacked out locally.

Elorde, regarded as a light puncher, pulled one of boxing's major upsets last March 16 in Manila when he flattened the favored Gomes in the eighth round. Gomes was floored eight times.

Old Pros Shine In 49er Contest

MORAGA (AP)—The old pros in the San Francisco 49er camp are smiling today. It looks as though Y. A. Tittle and Hugh McElhenny still have their jobs locked up.

Coach Red Hickey, delighted with the work of quarterback Tittle and halfback McElhenny, in the exhibition romp over the Washington Redskins Sunday, was reserved in his over-all optimism.

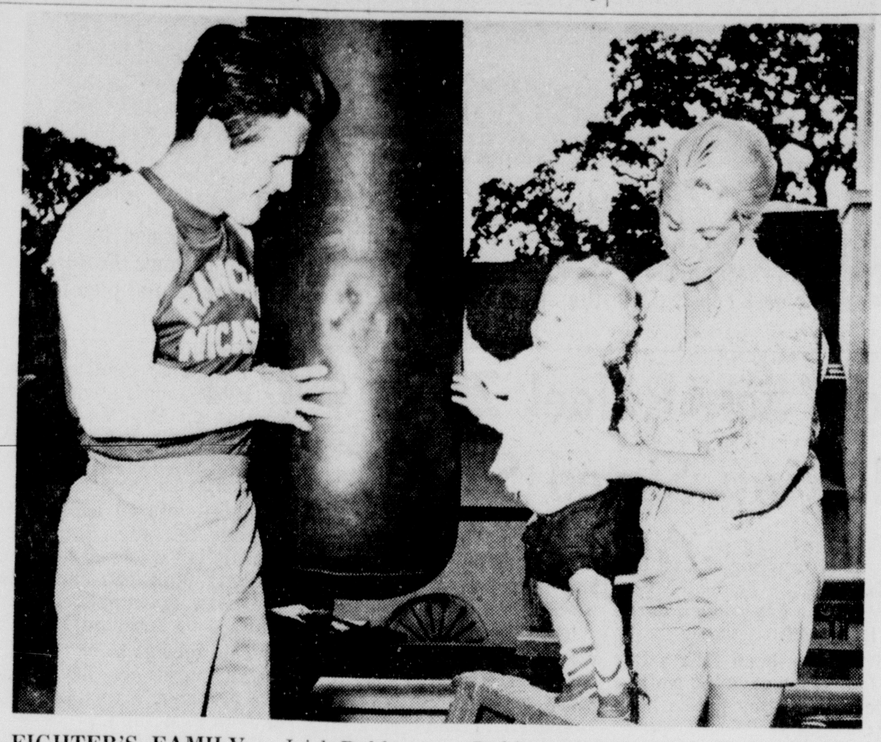

"After all," he said, "there's a long way to go."

Rock To Manage?

SCRANTON, Pa (AP)—Rocky Marciano, former heavyweight champion, said today he may return to boxing as a trainer and manager if he can find an outstanding young fighter with determination and heart.

Here's The Proper Procedure For Skinning, Cooking Rattlesnakes

STEVENS

Howdy, folks! One of our readers has asked for information. She requested we use only her initials—V.B.G. if we answered through this column. The letter: "My husband works atop a mountain, helping erect a radar tracking station. The building is coming along fine, but so are the rattlesnakes. Last week one was killed only 50 feet from the building. Measured 48 inches and had 10 rattles. I have heard they are good eating. Now, how would you go about. (1) Skinning them to use for belts, purses, etc.? (2) Cleaning them? (3) Preparing them to cook? (4) How to cook them? Me, I'm game to try anything at least once. Just use my initials—V. B. G."

THE ANSWER: Cut the head off about two inches below the jaws, thus bypassing the poison sac which is located in a pit at the top of the mouth. Make an incision from the vent to the top; peel back the skin as cleanly as you can. Thoroughly salt the fleshy side of the skin (if you tack it to a board, be careful not to stretch it too tightly). Let it dry in the sun for a day or two if you wish, then purchase some carpenter's glue and mix a few flakes in a cup of water (be careful not to get the mixture too thick—should just gel softly). Now mix in an equal amount of glycerine. Prepare enough of this solution so that the entire skin can be submerged in it. Leave it soak for one week, then remove and scrape every vestage of flesh from the skin.

It will be pliable and workable. To keep it, roll in newspaper and lay aside. The tanning of snake skins is a bit on the tricky side, but you will be able to make yourself a handsome belt by following the above directions.

Note: You will have some trouble with the scales becoming loose and dropping off, but remember that the experts who make a business of tanning snake skins remove all the scales in the tanning. Don't use any heavy varnish on the finished product. A very light lacquer may be used, but very sparingly.

AS TO COOKING the meat. That's very simple. Cut into desired lengths and wipe dry. Roll in sifted breadcrumbs, dip in beaten egg diluted with two tablespoons water. Then again in the bread crumbs and fry in hot fat. OR—after skin is removed, cut snake into three inch pieces. Put in buttered pan, to which add one dozen finely chopped shallots, one glass of white wine, and one cupful of broth or one bullion cube. Cover and boil until done. Place on platter while you heat an ounce of butter in a saucepan, add a teaspoon of flour and the broth in which the meat was cooked, and boil for five minutes. Bind with the yolk of two eggs and one-half cup of cream. Add a little chopped parsley and pour over the meat. Do not strain the sauce.

THERE IS a fair to good run of salmon and steelhead in the lower Klamath River at present. Some large fish have been boated from "line" fishermen and trollers in the lagoon and upstream to Blue Creek.

Local salmon trolling continues good for some and not-so-good for others. Fish are, on the average, running to good or "market" size. Schools seem to be somewhat scattered with good results off Double Point and also Pedro Point to the south of the Golden Gate.

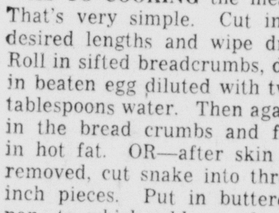

STRIPER FISHING is now worth the effort to scout the entire region from the Brothers to the Carquinez Bridge on bait. Apparently no intense concentration as yet, but plenty of fish, mostly in the four to six pound class are around. Try agitating your baits by thumb retrieving or by raising and lowering your rod-tip. Use small hooks and set the hook at the instant you feel a strike.

Fishing In Lakes Has Fallen Off

Trout fishing has tapered down at the Marin Municipal Water District lakes. The last plant of catchable-size trout was made in Lagunitas and Phoenix lake during the week of August 2.

Fishermen are anticipating another plant of fish before the season closes. Fishing has been exceptionally good during the present season.

Striped bass fishing at the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier at Point San Quentin has been slow the past month. Good catches of large perch have been taken.

Bianco Again To Help Plan Duck Rallies

Emil Bianco has again been appointed chairman of the Marin County and the Marin Rod and Gun Club Ducks Unlimited committees to handle the 1960 Annual Ducks Unlimited rallies being held in Stockton on Tuesday evening, Sept. 13, at the Stockton High School Auditorium, and in San Francisco on Sunday, Sept. 18, at the Pacific Rod and Gun Club, Lake Merced.

Bianco said: "It is only because I am extremely proud of the part that Marin County has always played and am anxious to maintain our position in this important event that I have agreed to handle the chairmanship this year, for the 23rd consecutive year. With your valued continued support, I am hoping that this year Marin County will not only maintain but surpass all past records in raising funds for this worthwhile cause.

"If you are a duck shooter, I don't have to tell you what Ducks Unlimited has done and is doing for you and your fellow shooters. If you aren't a duck shooter, you at least are interested in conservation and are aware that Ducks Unlimited has done a wonderful job towards increasing the duck population since the early 1930's when they had dwindled to the point where there was the possibility of their becoming extinct."

Award tickets for the 120 prizes, consisting of automobiles, boats, outboards, deep freeze, stoles, TV's, refrigerators, and scores of other valuable awards that anyone would enjoy having, can be secured from club members, committee members and sports shops.

Now is the time to secure your tickets. Better yet purchase them at the regular meeting of the club on Friday, August 19.

Ladies To Hear Talk On Feathered Trophies

On Tuesday, August 23, the Ladies Auxiliary will enjoy a rare treat. Following the business meeting, Ruth and Jonathan Daniel, who are members of the Auxiliary and the Men's Club respectively, will exhibit some of their creations and give an informative talk on the processing of feathered trophies which they perform daily in their shop in San Francisco. As they aptly phrase it, "A new concept in conservation measures finds its impression taking hold in feathered-crafted products—'Strictly from the Birds.'" Entertainment chairman Lane Harrington has been making the arrangements for the presentation.

At the membership meeting on July 26, Gertrude Schacht was installed as a director by President Carolyn Lato, having been unanimously elected.

For some time now, the Auxiliary has been seeking a location for target practice. Helen Schacht was appointed chairman of the Rifle Range Committee, and has made arrangements for Auxiliary members to use the San Quentin rifle range. The first meet will be on Saturday, August 20, at 10 o'clock. For further information members may call GL 6-0511 on week days.

Next Meet Slated For This Friday

The regular monthly meeting of the Marin Rod and Gun Club will be held Friday, August 19 at the clubhouse at Point San Quentin at 8 p.m.

President Peter Bertoni urges all members to attend this important meeting. The second reading of the revised bylaws will be read.

The bylaws committee has spent several months working over the bylaws that are very vital to every member, now, and in the future operation of the club.

Initiation of new members will be held and refreshments will be served during the evening.

Hear Ramp Plans

Representatives of the California wildlife presented plans and specifications for the new boat ramp this afternoon to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Early Season Figures Show Above Average Kill Of Deer

One hundred one deer were taken in Marin County the first week of the season. For the same period in 1959 only 68 were taken and the average take for the same period in 1955 to 1959 yielded 98 bucks.

The deer kill in the early season is ahead of both last year and the five-year average for the first week of the season, the Department of Fish and Game reported.

Dear tag returns show 4,690 deer taken, compared to 3,483 deer in the first week of the 1959 early season and a five year average (1955-59) of 3,969 deer.

In terms of number of deer taken and number of hunters in the field the first week end of this year's early deer season, August 6 and 7, was about the same as the first weekend last year, according to checking stations in the Department's Region III (headquarters in San Francisco).

In San Luis Obispo County, hunting pressure was down from last year, with the kill about the same. In Mendocino County hunting pressure was the same with the kill up about 12 per cent. The kill was down in the Fort Bragg area and up in the Laytonville area.

In Lake County, hunting pressure was heavier, with the kill the same as on the opening weekend last year. In Marin the pressure was the same but the kill was up in the Novato area. In Sonoma County the kill was up slightly, with the pressure the same as in 1959. Hunting pressure was the same as last year in Napa County with a slightly higher kill. In San Benito, there were about ten per cent more hunters afield, but the kill was no different.

A 162 pound buck was taken in Mendocino County, an usually large animal for the area.

California hunters have one month remaining to submit applications for permits to hunt antlerless or either-sex deer in 29 remaining special hunts open to the general public.

Deadline for applications is Sept. 13. The applications, which are attached to deer tags, must be received in the Department of Fish and Game headquarters, 722 Capitol Avenue, Sacramento, on that date. Public drawing for all of these hunts will be held September 16.

Special hunt details may be obtained from any license agent in the state.

Hunting Dates Fixed By Game Commission

The Fish and Game Comission has set dates for the hunting seasons on doves, band-tail pigeons and Wilson's snipe (jacksnipe). The California dates are within the framework permitted by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service, which has jurisdiction over migratory game birds.

The seasons this year will be Sept. 1 through Sept. 30 for mourning doves and white-winged doves; Oct. 1 to Oct. 31, inclusive, for band-tail pigeons in the northern tier of counties; Dec. 17 through Jan. 15 for the rest of the state, and Des. 3 to Jan. 1 for Wilson's snipe.

Formal confirmation of these dates will be made at the Commission's next meeting, July 25 in San Diego.

The northern tier of counties includes Del Norte, Humboldt, Mendocino, Siskiyou, Modoc, Lassen, Shasta, Trinity, Tehama, Butte, Glenn, Plumas and Sierra. The last four counties were added to the "northern tier" this year.

The fish and wildlife service this year permits no leeway on the part of the states for shooting hours, bag and possession limits. Daily bag and possession limits for mourning doves and white winged doves will be 10, singly or in the aggregate. For band-tail pigeons the daily bag and possession limit is eight, two more than last year. Shooting hours for doves and pigeons are from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. The daily bag and possession limit for Wilson's snipe is eight, with shooting hours sunrise (correct) to sunset.

Redecking Job Nears Completion

The redecking of the outer square on the Marin Rod and Gun Club is nearing completion.

The work has been under the chairmanship of Babe Dahl and Leo Cuicci, who, with their committee of workers have done an excellent job.

Help is need this weekend. So, if you can spare a day or a few hours your help will be appreciated. Either this Saturday or Sunday, August 20 and 21, starting at 8:30 a.m.

Be sure to bring along your saw and hammer. Lunch will be served at noon for the workers in the clubhouse.

Chicken Barbecue Draws Big Throng

The annual chicken barbecue of the Marin Rod and Gun Club held on Sunday, July 24 was the best attended in the history of the club, and a financial success.

Girl's Body Found In Sierra Foothills

MERCED (UPI)—The nude body of Angie May Stewart, 6, was found in the brush-covered Sierra foothills near Mariposa last night, just a week after mysterious disappearance from her parents' car.

Authorities said they planned tests today to determine the cause of Angie's death and whether she was sexually molested. The girl's clothing was found near her partially decomposed body.

In San Francisco, meanwhile, Army CWO Clarence Ashley, 35, turned himself in to police after reading in a newspaper that Angie's body had been found and police wanted to talk to him again.

Ashley, who had befriended the Stewart girl's parents shortly before she disappeared from their camping place in Fremont-Ford State Park, had been held for several days by authorities here. He was questioned about the girl's disappearance, given an inconclusive lie detector test—and finally released late last week on a writ of habeus corpus.

Angie's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Stewart, transient farm workers. They are in custody on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors for allegedly improper supervision of two other children, Billy, 9, and Eddie, 11 months.

Angie disappeared early last Monday from the family car at the campground. Billy, who was with her in the vehicle, said he awoke once and noticed Ashley trying to get into the car, and later awoke to find Angie was missing.

Searchers have combed the surrounding area each day since then in hopes of finding Angie alive.

TANK RUMBLES, HOMES TUMBLE; NO ONE CARES

OAKLAND (AP)—A Sherman tank rumbled through 12 blocks of Oakland, smashing houses and trees.

Nobody tried to stop the driver, Abdo S. Allen. In fact, civic leaders stood by watching him.

Allen, a wrecking contractor, contracted to level 12 blocks for a new automatic post office distribution center.

The best way to do the job, he figured, was to buy a World War II tank he had seen in an Oakland salvage yard.

The tank cost him $2,000. He grossed $64,000 for the wrecking job.

The average American household has a nest egg of at least $5,500, about 33 per cent of it in the bank, 31 per cent in life insurance savings, 16 per cent in government savings bonds and about 2 per cent in credit unions and the like.

Cyprus Independent, But Greeks Unhappy

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—Speeches, a 21-gun salute, cheers and fireworks marked the independence of the island of Cyprus today after 82 years of British rule. But Greek Cypriots generally were disappointed with the terms.

A Britsih artillery regiment fired off the 21-gun salute when the island became officially free at midnight. Thousands in the streets of Nicosia cheered and began setting off fireworks.

About 200 Cypriots officials were packed into the Cyprus Parliament chamber, sweltering in heat above 100 degrees, for the official proclamation ceremony.

The Greek Cypriots, though welcoming the departure of the British and the achievement of self-government, feel cheated because their desire to unite with Greece is ruled out by the Zurich and London agreements under which the new state is set up.

The Greeks also complain that the Turkish Cypriot minority has been given almost equal status in affairs of state.

In a farewell message, the last British governor of the island, Sir Hugh Foot, cited the Greek-Turkish rivalry.

"A few dismal commentators say that the people of Cyprus will destroy each other," Sir Hugh said, "that you will tear yourselves to bits, Greek against Turk and left against right. There are a few who say the island will go down in a sea of blood and hate. It could be, but I don't believe it."

Sir Hugh turned the reins of government over to the first president of Cyprus, Greek Orthodox Archbishop Makarios, the leader of the Greek community, and Vice President Fazil Kutchuk, leader of the Turkish community.

World Church Group Starts Unity Talks

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (UPI)—The policy-making central committee of the World Council of Churches opened a nine-day conference here today and put the question of relations with Roman Catholicism high on the agenda.

The 90-member committee heard the executive committee report on relations with the Roman Catholic church. Also put up for discussion will be the problem of world overpopulation.

Altogether, 300 leaders of the council's 172 member churches in more than 50 countries are attending the meeting.

The conference aims at discussing ways in which the world's Protestant, Anglican and Orthodox churches can move toward unity.

At this morning's committee session by Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, of New York, presided. Dr. Fry is president of the United Lutheran Church.

Laos Cabinet Named, Has No Communists

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Premier-designate Prince Souvanna Phouma presented a new Communist-free cabinet to the Laotian national assembly today.

The assembly was expected to give quick approval to the new government at tomorrow's session.

Souvanna, an avowed neutralist, did not include any Communists in the government he formed to replace the former pro-Western cabinet that was ousted in a military coup last week. Neither did he include any ministers from that former government.

Souvanna, twice premier of Laos in the past, retained the key ministries of defense and foreign affairs for himself.

The decision represented a reversal of the prince's policy in his two previous stints at premier in 1956 and 1957 when he made peace with pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas operating in northern Laos and included Reds in his government.

The boycott on Communists appeared to have the support of military rebels who seized this capital last week, ultimately forcing the resignation of Prime Minister Tiao Somsanith.

The rebels, led by paratroop Capt. Kong Le, actively oppose the continued presence of American military teams in Laos.

RED GLOW AT RED BLUFF

Highway Patrolmen Report Mysterious Flying Football

RED BLUFF (UPI) — Two California highway patrolmen have reported sighting — and then racing—a mysterious flying football-shaped thing which gave off a mysterious red glow.

At least eight other persons also reported spotting the object, which was described as being the size of an airliner. They reported that sometimes it just hung silently in the air only 200 feet off the ground.

The strange story began about 11:45 p.m. Saturday when Patrolmen Stanley Scott and Charles A. Carson were cruising in their patrol car some 18 miles south of here.

Scott last night reported that he first saw the thing about a mile and a half away at an altitude of 200 feet. It seemed to have a row of horizontal lights and "something on the end that made a red beam" and appeared to be sweeping the ground, he reported.

As they kept looking at it in disbelief, it suddenly shot noiselessly up about 500 feet.

They sent out a radio alert and then put their flashing red light on. The object swung its red beam and then began to slide across the sky, they reported. They pursued the object for about two hours.

At one time, it went into "various maneuvers—straight up and down, and sideways." But it soon left its pursuers behind.

Three deputy sheriffs, hearing the radio alert, raced into the hunt. They reported that they saw it too, but were also out-maneuvered as the thing disappeared over the eastern horizon around 2 a.m.

All this time, the patrolmen's radio was full of static, presumably caused by the flying object.

Meanwhile, here in Red Bluff, the night jailer, Clarence Fry, picked up the radio alert. About 1 a.m. he marched four prisoners onto the front steps of the jailhouse. All five men testified to seeing the glowing mysterious object "about 25 miles to the south."

Neither man would identify it as a "flying saucer."

But their boss, Highway Patrol Capt. Ruel Boehm, said last night: "They know they saw it and we know they saw it."

Color Line Fades At Bus Terminals In Six States

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Restaurants in Trailways bus terminals in six southern and border states were desegregated today, and public school integration will take place in four more Virginia cities for the first time next month.

Bryce Wagoner, president of Bus Terminal Restaurants, Inc., announced at Raleigh, N. C., that his firm's eating establishments in Trailways terminals in Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Florida, West Virginia and Maryland no longer will "refuse service to anyone because of race."

Virginia's state pupil placement board, successor to the old "massive resistance" board, assigned 11 Negroes yesterday to previously white schools in Richmond and Roanoke—the first school integration in either city. Negro children also will attend previously white schools for the first time this fall in Pulaski and Fairfax.

Marinite Given Teaching Position

A teaching assistantship in chemistry at the University of Wisconsin has been awarded to Lawrence Craft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Craft of San Anselmor, for the school term commencing this fall.

Craft attended the Sir Francis Drake High School and the College of Marin and received his bachelor of science degree from the University of California at Berkeley in June. He has been employed as an assistant in the university's biochemical laboratory during the summer.

As a graduate student at the Wisconsin university he plans to work toward obtaining his Ph. D. in organic chemistry and to enter the field of research. He will leave for Madison, Wis., next week.

PHONE BOOTH OF THE FUTURE?

This is the Vistabooth—one of many new booths telephone people are testing. The idea is to explore new materials and new designs for your future telephone convenience. Meanwhile, phone people continue to increase the number of modern, well-lighted booths available to you now—spotting them where you're most likely to need them.

Last year, we added 2,600 new public telephones in the Pacific West, raising the total to 69,500. And, we plan to add more in 1960, so it will be even easier to find a phone wherever you may go

Francine Rodgers Is Wed At Nuptial Mass

At St. Raphael's Church at high noon on Saturday, Francine Carol Rodgers and David Thomas Cunneen exchanged vows at a nuptial mass with the Rev. Francis A. Lacey, member of the faculty of Marin Catholic High School, of which bride and bridegroom are both graduates, officiating. A Papal blessing was bestowed on the young couple.

Francine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis S. Rodgers of San Rafael was given in marriage by her father. He gown of white Chantilly lace was designed with a fitted bodice, long sleeves and Sabrina neckline. The very full skirt was floor length. A coronet of seed pearls held the bride's veil of imported English illusion and she carried a white prayerbook topped with golden throated white orchids from which cascaded white ribbon streamers caught with stephanotis.

The bride's attendants were gowned alike in peacock blue silk chiffon designed with scoop necklines, draped bodice, short sleeves and matching velveteen midriffs. Of the same blue were their velveteen and tulle headdresses and blue tulle streamers were tied to their nosegays of white and peacock blue carnations.

Rosemary Machado of Byron was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Maureen Wrin of Walnut creek and the bridegroom's sister, Jenn Cunneen of San Anselmo.

Linda Crawford, six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crawford, a niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Her white frock was eccented with a blue cummerbund and white and blue flowers were on her hair. White daisies filled her white basket.

George Cruikshank of San Rafael was best man and guests were escorted to their pews by Roger Chaix of Larkspur and John Marty of San Francisco.

Missal mass booklets were distributed by the bridegroom's sister, Sheila Cunneen, and Maureen Cramton.

Serving as altar boys were the bride's only brother, Blake Rodgers, and the bridegroom's brother, Arthur Cunneen. Blake, a recent graduate of Marin Catholic, will enter St. Joseph's Seminary in Mountain View to study for the priesthood.

RECEPTION

White gladioli decorated the altar before which the young couple took their vows. A reception at San Rafael Improvement Club followed the ceremony. Arrangements of pink baby orchids and loquat sprays with urns filled with greens decorated the lounge. The three tiered wedding cake was topped by white bells and encircled with small white baby orchids.

Gwendee Eckles of Santa Venetia, a cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

When the newlyweds left by car for a honeymoon at Carmel the bride was wearing a powder blue suit with white accessories.

BERKELEY HOME

After Aug. 21 the couple will reside at 2035 A Parker Street, Berkeley. The bride will return to the College of Holy Names in Oakland, where she is a senior. Dave, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Cunneen of San Anselmo will continue his studies in the evening division of the University of San Francisco. He is employed by Standard Oil Co.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Rodgers wore a champagne colored silk sheath with matching satin cummerbund. Her hat and accessories matched. Her corsage was of coral-throated cymbidiums.

Fullskirted was the blue silk organza dress of the bridegroom's mother. Roses were embroidered on the bodice and skirt. She had matching blue hat and small pink rosebuds were in her corsage.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Frank Blake of San Rafael. The bridegroom is the brother of Mrs. Robert Crawford of Santa Rosa, Arthur, Jenny and Sheila Cunneen of San Anselmo.

RECENTLY BROUGHT from South America and not too fond of people and cameras, Claude Fell-and's pet ocelot, nevertheless, posed with him in the interest of the salvage sale to be sponsored by the Mill Valley Auxiliary of the Marin Humane Society Aug. 22 through Aug. 24. Good Tidings For Tourists

By LYDIA BICKFORD

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Tourists who abhor guided tours through old mansions, and yearn to sit down somewhere and take off their shoes, will appreciate the casual approach adopted by the overseers of a Long Island garden now on display.

There are no guides, few rules and no timetable for sightseeing. Picnickers actually are encouraged.

This informal attitude was adopted by the board of directors of Old Westbury Gardens when the park was opened to the public. Families wander through the large brick home formerly occupied by the John S. Phipps family, move across the garden to the children's play yard, where three separate playhouses are located, and often spend the rest of the day painting or reading under one of the famous linden trees.

Daughter of the Phipps family, Mrs. Etienne Boegner is president of the board of trustees and has many ideas for adding to the estate without over-organizing the visitors trip. Currently, a sculpture exhibit is being shown in the estate's formal garden.

Mrs. Boegner talks of a string orchestra which might play outside the 18th Century brick mansion's front entrance, garden club and art exhibits. Botanists, she thinks, will also enjoy the garden's large collection of flowers, and the sweeping rows of trees, many of which were planted by the Phipps' family.

Many Groups Taking Part In Club Bazaar

A group of seventh grade Girl Scouts, under the leadership of Mrs. Harry Farmer, has spoken for a booth at the Garden Club Autumn Bazaar to be put on at the Erice Market in Novato on Oct. 24. The girls have already planted oyster shells with tiny succulents. They will also sell packaged clam shells, bamboo matting, wood fabric, drapery and shade cloth lengths. An innovation at the bazaar will be the Girl Scout gold fish pond where purchasers of ping pong balls may try their skill at throwing the balls into a fish bowl. Prizes for the successful throwers will be live gold fish. The money earned at their booth will be used by the Scouts in their project of assisting a cottage for girls at the Sonoma hospital.

Other groups who have spoken for booths at the Autumn Bazaar are: the Grandmothers' Club and the Episcopal ladies who have not yet announced what they will sell; the American Field Service which will display catalogues and take orders for gifts and Christmas cards from many lands as well as sell candy bars marked "American Field Service, Novato," the Open Door Club which will conduct its popular "Up in Grandma's Attic" sale; the DeMolay and Rainbow Mothers who will sell nut-breads, cookies and candy; and the Novato Junior Women's club which will sell peanut butter chews artistically boxed.

Any group in the city is invited to have a booth at the bazaar which the Garden Group puts on twice a year as a community effort. Requests for booths should be made to Mrs. Robin Cannon, general chairman.

The Garden Club will have hundreds of home grown plants, trees, shrubs, and bulbs for sale. Members will offer information on the culture and care of both outdoor offerings and house plants.

Animals throughout Marin County are in the spotlight this week as members of the Mill Valley Auxiliary of the Marin County Humane Society make final preparations for a three-day salvage sale at the Outdoor Art Clubhouse in Mill Valley.

Beginning Monday, Aug. 22, the sale will be open from 10 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. through Aug. 24.

The Outdoor Art Clubhouse at 1 West Blithedale Avenue will be piped with music for the enjoyment of shoppers. Sandwiches and coffee will be served on the terrace; a plant booth will supply garden brighteners; a fish pond will be available for youngsters, and on Wednesday a bake sale will be held.

It's Audrey In Russia

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
By REINHOLD ENSZ

What do Russian women think of western movie stars?

My guide on a recent sightseeing trip in Russia, a married girl of about 23, had a startling amount of information about film actresses.

"Audrey Hepburn," she said, "is my favorite American actress. I saw her in 'War and Peace' and in 'Roman Holiday' (which is now running in Soviet movie houses.) I think she is absolutely wonderful, but I did not like Gregory Peck (in 'Roman Holiday'). I thought he was dull."

From further conversation about Miss Hepburn, I gathered she is also a favorite of a large number of persons in the Soviet Union. It seems many Soviet girls are wearing Audrey Hepburn hairdos.

"War and Peace" and "Roman Holiday" are the only two Audrey Hepburn movies which have been brought to the Soviet Union under the film exchange agreement with the United States, but my guide was able to rattle off the names of almost every other film that Miss Hepburn has played in.

Then she asked: "What about Sophia Loren? I hear all of her jewels were stolen in England. Did she get them back? And I hear her husband has a bald head . . ."

Since none of Sophia Loren's pictures have been shown in the Soviet Union and Soviet publications do not publish intelligence about Western movie stars, I asked, "Where did you hear all this?"

"Ah," she smiled, "from the (London) Daily Worker and L'Humanite (the French communist party newspaper)."

At Nurses' Meeting

Attending the fall board meeting of the Licensed Vocational Nurses League of California at the Senator Hotel in Sacramento last week were three San Rafael women. The trio was composed of Mabel Kuhlken, state president, Clara Burkholder, state secretary, and Gertrude Mirgon, state publicity chairman.

Indian Lore Learned By Novato Brownie Scouts At Day Camp

For the past two weeks, a "tribe of Indian Maidens" has camped at Stafford Dam. On closer inspection, the group turned out to be Brownie Scouts from Novato, Hamilton Air Force Base, Loma Verde, San Anselmo and Raphael Village, enjoying a two-week day camp. Using the American 'ndians as the theme of their camp, the girls made Indian costumes tepees and totem poles, which they used on Friday when they presented a specia' program for their visiting parents and friends in an afternoon "open house."

The Brownies have been especially interested in learning more about the California Indians. A visitor on Tuesday was Ranger John Curry from Samuel P. Taylor State Park who told the girls about the Indians of this region, and invited them to attend one of the campfire programs held at the park each evening during the summer.

A highlight at camp was the visit of Miss Jocelyn Mackay of Nelson, New Zealand, who has been an official visitor-observer from her country to the United States for the past three and a half months. Returning from a trip around the continent observing Girl Scouting in the U. S. A. and attending the Edith Macy Girl Scout Training School in New York, she has represented the Girl Guides Assn. of the Dominion of New Zealand as a provincial camp advisor and trainer in camping. The Brownies were fascinated with the account of her trip which has been sponsored by the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund, made possible by the pennies each Girl Scout and Brownie contributes to the fund.

A normal camp day included the Flag Ceremony, crafts, hikes, nature lore, songs, games, cookouts and making homemade ic cream. Mrs. Mack H. Crabtree, a teacher at Olive School in Novato, brought an interesting display of sea life, shells and seaweed found on Marin County beaches. The Brownies were also taken on conducted tours of the North Marin County Water Treatment Plant at Stafford Dam by William H. Nelson, who explained the various stages of water purification.

Senior Scouts who assisted the camp counselorss with crafts, songs and games were Norene Jordan, Sheila Locke, Mary Ann Mahaffy, Jane Patterson and Jane Oldham, who are working on their Senior Scout five point program. Intermediate Scouts assisting at camp were Lee Zepp and Susan Tandy. Assisting Mrs. A. S. Butti in the nursery, where the leaders' younger children are cared for were Senior Scouts Kathy Robinson and Lindy Walton who are working toward their Child Care Aid Rank.

Director of Day Camp was Mrs. Harry D. Farmer, with Mrs. Bob Wakeman, business manager; Mrs. William Colebourn, nurse, and Mrs. John Coulter who taught the girls many new songs. Unit leaders were: Mesdames Clarence Carlsen, John S. McDougall, Glen E. Simmons and Harvey E. Slocum. Counselors were: Mesdames George G. Bellamy, William T. Coffman, Willard M. Denny, Harry A. Dray, Robert S. Goldener, John B. Laycock, Harold B. Nordyke and James R. Orr.

San Anselmo Trio Making Long Trip

Three San Anselmo youths, Michael Klapak, Bruce and Lee Malcolm, have left on a month's sightseeing and camping trip in their Volkswagen truck. They are going to Sarasota, Fla. by the southern route, stopping at Grand Canyon, Carlsbad Caverns, San Antonio, Tex., New Orleans, La., Biloxi, Miss., and Pensacola, Fla. They will visit with friends of Bruce and Lee in Sarasota, their former home. The trio will also see other places in Florida including the Everglades and the Florida Keys.

The young men will go north into the Smoky Mountains of Tennessee and to Kentucky. They will drive to St. Louis, Mo., Kansas City, Denver, Colo. and will stop over in Colorado Springs and Pueblo, Colo, where Michael has relatives. They will cross the Rocky Mountains to Salt Lake City and Lake Tahoe and home.

Lee is a senior at Sir Francis Drake High School and Bruce and Michael are in their second year at engineering school at College of Marin. Michael is the son of the Andrew Klapaks, and parents of Bruce and Lee are the L. M. Malcolms.

Many Famous Pairs In Late Marriages

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — The other day the United Arab Republic banned May-December marriages in what seems to be an unprecedented step against late-flowering love.

Henceforth in the UAR, marrigaes between men over 60 and women under 30 are out.

In most other countries, such things are left to nature, and nature — aided by medical advances in geriatrics—has been pretty liberal with its boundaries.

Just a couple of days ago, for instance, after the UAR clamped the lid on, a news item from Italy told about a 20-year-old countess who'd just had her second child by her husband—a sprightly 79.

And what about Charles and Oona Chaplin, who've had seven children since their 54-18 marriage 17 years ago, and ostensibly are still in the billing and cooing stage?

There are other famous couples whose union would have been prevented by a law such as the UAR's.

Pablo Casals, regarded as the world's greatest cellist, is his wife's elder by 61 years, but they're having a good time making beautiful music together she was his pupil, walking, swimming and decorating their home in Puerto Rico.

Another musical Peter Pan is Sir Thomas Beecham, who married his third wife, manager of the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra which he directed, a year ago. He was 80 and she was 27. But it struck a harmonious note.

In the literary field, there's T. S. Eliot, considered one of the greatest poets of the age. His honeymoon occurred about three years ago when he was 68 — and the bride, his secretary, was 30.

And so it goes.

The marriage counselling books are full of thoughts on the subject of relatively unequal marriages, carefully couched so as to offend nobody, even an octogenarian bridegroom. But you get the idea that the venture is fraught with peril; especially when the girl is really looking for a father, or when she wants to go out dancing and he'd rather stay home and read.

It's adjust, adjust, adjust. Which makes it sound strangely like every other marriage.

For Home Protection

Safety labels for many substances in common household use will be required under the new "Federal Hazardous Substances Labeling Law." If the substances can cause "substantial" personal injury or illness as a result of any customary or reasonably foreseeable handling or use, the new labeling rules will apply. Included in the use provisions is the "reasonably foreseeable ingestion by children." The label on such substances will carry the word warning or danger or caution. It also will carry brief comments as to the nature of the hazard, identify the hazardous ingredients, state precautionary steps for handling or use and first aid instructions. The law states that the warning—"keep out of the reach of children"—must be shown to the extent appropriate.

Food For Elders Should Be Flavorsome, Well Seasoned

By JEANNE LESEM

NEW YORK (UPI) — Oldsters who complain that food tastes bland and insipid shouldn't always blame the cook, says a nutrition expert.

The sense of taste, like those of sight and hearing, dims with advancing age.

Food needs to be especially flavorsome and well-seasoned to tempt elderly appetites and induce them to eat a balanced diet, Dr. C. G. King said in an interview.

Dr. King is president of the Nutrition Foundation, Inc., a research organization supported by the food and allied industries to advance the science of good nutrition.

Particular attention should be paid to vegetable preparation. Overcooking not only makes vegetables upappetizing, but it also destroys valuable nutrients, Dr. King said.

The aged have a tendency to eat too little fruit, vegetables, and high quality protein, such as lean meat, fish, eggs and cheese, he said. Many who live alone develop finicky appetites and turn to snack type foods. They're no longer interested in careful preparation of nourishing, attractive, well-balanced meals.

For them, Dr. King suggests good prepared foods, such as frozen dinners packed in individual servings. He said there's "fairly good evidence" that many who live alone are beginning to use such products.

But what of the homemaker whose family includes at least one elderly relative? Must she prepare two separate menus—one for the oldster and another for the rest of the family?

This course shows poor judgement, Dr. King said. Unless the doctor orders a special diet, older members of the family should share the regular menu, exercising good judgment in emphasizing lean protein foods, fruits and vegetables in pleasant variety, and eating smaller portions of cereal foods and other high calorie products. Low fat cheese and skim milk should be substituted for whole milk products.

A reasonable amount of regular exercise that "isn't too strenuous and presents no danger of falls" should augment this sensible diet, Dr. King said. Walking, golfing and outdoor bowling fall into this category.

But what of finicky eaters whose outspoken idiosyncracies increase proportionately with advancing age?

Make their meals as attractive as possible, Dr. King suggested, and — as with all older persons, emphasize pleasure rather than the "good for you" angle.

"The average elder tends to get careless about most things, including habits," he said. "It's up to the rest of us to convince them that food practices really make a difference in how they feel.

"The environment in which people eat is also tremendously important. The family dinner table should be a place of cheer and good fellowship. With music in the background.

"And I strongly urge group eating. It's conductive to health and pleasure, whether the group numbers two or 200."

WCTU Meets On Friday

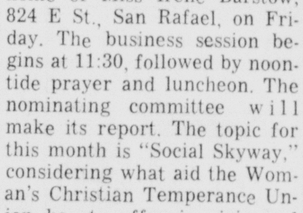

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Miss Irene Barstow, 824 E St., San Rafael, on Friday. The business session begins at 11:30, followed by noontide prayer and luncheon. The nominating committee will make its report. The topic for this month is "Social Skyway," considering what aid the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has to offer in civic and health interests, in law observance, and in juvenile problems.

The afternoon session will open with devotions led by Miss Bessie Foster. Scripture reading will be "For the Lord knoweth the way of the righteous, but the way of the ungodly shall perish." The group will join in singing "Work for the Night is Coming." Miss Barstow will review a chapter from the Study Book, "Really Living."

THE PARENTS' CORNER

By RICHMOND BARBOUR, Ph. D.

Youngsters' Strange Illnesses Are Often The Result Of Fear

I want you to meet three young friends of mine. They all had strange illnesses.

Billy is almost 16, and in high school. He is bright but timid. Billy ran a fever on the days he was supposed to take exams in math. He has no infection. But his fever went sky high every time.

Betty was enrolled in public speaking. She is a shy, quiet, pretty little teen-ager. She felt completely inadequate. On the days when she was scheduled to give speeches she had a bad head cold and sore throat. She was so hoarse she couldn't speak.

Mary is 10, and has a good mind. However, she failed to learn to read. Her father whipped her for being behind. That made matters worse. Then a teacher took Mary out of the school glee club because of her reading. After that Mary had a severe digestive upset whenever she thought of school. She was violently ill every weekday. Finally she had to drop out of school.

Do you know children like Billy, Betty or Mary? Their illnesses are real. They are not malingerers. They don't intend to get sick. But sick they are, just the same. Others get migraine headaches, develop ulcers, have asthma attacks, allergies, skin rashes, heart disorders. Their ailments come from fear.

Can you help them?

Yes. Find their problems and teach them to cope with them. If you punish them you'll only make matters worse. Billy received coaching in math. Betty was allowed to give her talk in front of her teacher alone. Mary was given remedial reading instruction by a competent psychologist. Now all three are succeeding.

Their illnesses? Gone completely.

READERS' FORUM

(A) Yes, the title is startling, but the book itself is fine. The author, E. M. Duvall, is a reliable, capable woman.

Iraq Finds Economic Aid From Russ Not As Advantagous As Hoped

By WILTON WYNN

BAGHDAD (AP)—In the twisted alleyways of old Baghdad is a bazaar known as the "Thieves' Market."

The Thieves' Market specializes in second-hand clothing — often stolen—and similar shoddy articles. But to Soviets working in Iraq, it is shoppers' paradise.

Swarms of Soviet Communist-bloc experts were brought to Iraq after the anti-Western revolution of July 1958. These experts showed up in poverty sordid even by Iraq standards.

Iraquis tell of the Soviet expert who came with only one shirt and washed it out each night. As many as five Soviet families moved into a single apartment. Half a dozen Soviets would buy a package of cigarettes and divide it among themselves. Three would go into a bar and share a single beer while they played chess.

Hotel employees got no tips from the Soviets. Taxi drivers got no fares. The Soviets rode second class on buses or walked.

Iraquis turned up their noses at all this, but the Communist assault on the Thieves' Market was the last straw. Lower-class Iraquis regularly buy used American clothing in that bazaar. When the Soviets arrived, they moved in like locusts and bought out the market.

This is only a minor aspect of the general disillusionment Iraquis have had with the Communist bloc in two years. At the time of the revolution, the Iraquis generally felt they had been robbed by the West in the past. They diverted much of their economic and commercial dealing to the Soviet bloc, and in March, 1959, concluded a sweeping technical and economic cooperation agreement with the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Union agreed to provide 550 million rubles for an industrialization program. The Iraqui revolutionary regime hastily fired its Western technicians in favor of Soviets. Now the Iraquis are having second thoughts.

For one thing, the Soviet experts were not nearly as cheap as they appeared to be. One was paid 275 dinars to replace an American who was getting 400. But, the Soviet had to have an interpreter, and the American didn't (most educated Iraquis speak English). This ran the cost of the Soviet almost up to that of the American.

The American spent most of his 400 dinars inside Iraq, while the Soviet experts salary was paid to the Soviet Embassy, which gave the expert 30 to 40 dinars a month. The remainder was sent back to the Soviet Union.

When the 1959 agreement was signed, Soviet equipment appeared to be much cheaper than that sold Iraq by the West. But when the agreement was put into operation, the Iraquis found the rate of exchange for the ruble had been placed at far less than the value of the Iraqui dinar.

All this does not mean the Iraquis intend to cancel Soviet aid. But it does indicate the Iraquis now understand that they cannot except miracles from the Communist bloc.

Forest Fires Battled In North State

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Small armies of men continued today for the third consecutive day to battle a major outbreak of forest fires at widely separated points in Northern California.

Late yesterday, 210 state prison inmates were flown from Southern California to Plumas National Forest, where two fires in the Longvale area had burned nearly 3,000 acres of timber. Plumas Forest spokesmen said the uncontrolled fires had started "slopping out in all directions" because of gusty winds.

Altogether, more than 3,000 men were on fire lines to battle the north state blazes. State dispatchers in Sacramento said their supply of prison manpower was "just about cleaned out."

The redwood trees of California secrete poisonous substances which are deadly to the insects upon which birds normally feed. Hence, there are no birds.

Check Case Goes To Higher Court

Howard Curtis Hoffman, 35-year-old Sausalito painter, was bound over to superior court on bad check charges Friday by Judge Richard M. Sims Jr. in Marin County Municipal Court.

He is charged with passing four bogus checks totaling about $60 at a Sausalito bar and a yacht dock. Hoffman was released on his own recognizance.

Sausalito police arrested him on July 13.

SITE FOR DAM—Sketch map locates roughly site for huge hydroelectric dam proposed by Sen. Ernest Gruening.

WON'T BE EASY

Alaska Solon Seeks Hugh Dam For State

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Alaska, our biggest state, will have the nation's biggest hydro-electric dam if Sen. Ernest Gruening has his way.

Gruening, peppery, 73-year-old junior senator from the 49th state, is pushing ahead with efforts to win federal support for the project despite an apparent lack of administration fervor.

"I undoubtedly will have a problem selling this," the Democratic senator acknowledges. "I have no illusions it's going to be easy."

The project would create a 10,000-square-mile lake, rather bathtub size for Alaska's hefty girth of 586,400 square miles, in Rampart Canyon on the Yukon River north of Fairbanks.

The lake would spread behind a billion-dollar dam that would provide five million kilowatts an hour, three times as much power generated by Grand Coulee in Washington State, the nation's largest concrete dam.

Gruening says the dam will be needed to supply power for Alaska's future development.

He foresees a great era of economic development should vast amounts of low cost power be available to uncork the wealth of mineral deposits now locked in remote sections of interior Alaska.

As things stand now, contends Gruening, a former territorial governor of Alaska, the state's "great rivers run wastefully to the sea."

Furthermore, he says, America is dragging its feet on power development projects, while Russia rushes ahead with similar giant hydroelectric construction in Siberia.

In addition to serving the national wealth, a big dam at Rampart would do wonders for his own state, Gruening contends.

Its power "could be transmitted to all parts of Alaska," the senator says, "and every part of the state would be benefitted.

"One of the great obstacles Alaska faces," Gruening adds, "is the high cost of living. Cheap power would be a great counter-acting agent to this."

At best, Gruening says, the dam couldn't be in operation for 13 or 14 years, even if funds necessary for the whole job are appropriated next year. It would take seven years of actual construction alone, he estimates, even after all the necessary advance planning, study and design had been completed.

So far, Gruening has been without any really ardent support for the project. But no concerted opposition has developed to his efforts.

Even so, most residents of the sparsely-settled big new state seem likely to rally behind Gruening's cause, particularly if the prospects brighten for actual approval of a Rampart Dam.

A construction project of the magnitude necessary to build such a dam—not to mention what might come from the actual power resulting from it—would be the biggest single job ever undertaken in Alaska.

Ranger Cites Wrong Slant In Poster

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (AP)—Talk about heresy—now comes a naturalist animal lover who says "Smokey the Bear" is a Judas leading his brothers, sisters and animal cousins to the brink of extinction!

"I'm not fooling," says Buck Evans, the "Bear Ranger" of Yosemite. "The posters, stories, movies, those delightful pictures of Smokey and his family, have set us back a generation in campaigns to convince people bears are wild animals and should be so treated.

"Smokey, while saving forests from fire, is casting wild animals in a role of familiarity that robs them of their fear of man, the greatest protection they possess—and vice versa.

"This is especially threatening to bears, which because of their roving habits will often travel 25 or more miles a day—from the environment of cameras, food handouts and giggling kiddies into a hostile forest of hunters with high-powered rifles."

Evans says that to a lesser extent the Smokey campaign also threatens other wild life with decimation and the problem of those like himself who are in parks and forests to protect animals have been multiplied by the kindly expression of Smokey and his jolly cubs.

"Smokey is here to stay," Evans admits, "so we'll have to contend with him. What we can do I don't know, but something will have to be done to counteract the cuddly bear philosophy. I don't see how it can be effective unless combined with the Smokey campaigns."

Recreation Report Due In Terra Linda

The Terra Linda Community Services District board will hear a report at 8 p.m. today in the Hoffman School on a proposed recreation program for Terra Linda.

A recreation steering committee headed by A. C. Agnew has been working on the program for about 10 months. The proposals, if approved by the board, will be submitted to the voters.

Squaw Valley Meeting

The Senate Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources will convene at the Squaw Valley Inn in Squaw Valley Sept. 1 and 2 to consider the proposed expansion and disposition of the Squaw Valley State Park, State Sen. John F. McCarthy of San Rafael, a member of the committee announced.

Transfusion Given Girl, 9, Despite Parents' Objections

WALNUT CREEK (UPI)—A young girl was given emergency blood transfusions by court order yesterday after her parents objected on religious grounds.

Karen Kemline, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen R. Kemline of Albany, was reported out of danger after the transfusions.

The girl cut an artery in her leg Sunday night when she walked into a plate glass window. When her parents brought her to Kaiser hospital, they asked Dr. Byron Zaharias not to give her blood transfusions.

They explained they were members of Jehovah Witnesses, a religious sect which objects to transfusing blood.

Zaharias said he found during surgery that transfusions were absolutely necessary—and he contacted Judge Wakefield Taylor, who issued the court order by telephone.

Suit Filed On Arrest

A $125,000 suit charging malicious prosecution was filed yesterday by Robert Borman, owner of the Clipper Ship Antique Shop in Sausalito, against tenants Gus and Louise Sutherland, who live above the store.

The suit, filed in Marin County Superior Court by attorney Harry P. Glass, alleged that the couple had Borman arrested on April 25 for striking Mrs. Sutherland.

The Sutherlands live at 599 Bridgewater.

On a motion by the district attorney, the battery charge was dismissed on Augusct 10.

Borman said he suffered humiliation and an injured reputation as a result of the arrest.

He is suing for $75,000 general damages, $50,000 punitive damages and $750 attorneys fees and bail bonds.

Coast Guard Unit Holds Marin Drill

Members of the U.S. Coast Guard reserve unit ORTUPS 12-741 (organized reserve training unit, port security) based at Santa Rosa moved to San Rafael over the weekend for swimming, life-saving and resuscitation drill at the home of Roy Mchael, 216 Mountain View Avenue.

Sixty-five enlisted men and officers participated in the yearly drill to determine swimming proficiency and practice life saving techniques.

The commanding officer, Homer Freed, said 80 per cent of the enlisted men and all of the officers in the unit live in Marin.

Farm Housing Loan Requirements Relaxed

The Farmers Home Administration announced last week that requirements for farm housing loans administered by the FHA have been relaxed, somewhat.

The administration is now permitted to make farm housing loans to farms that will produce agricultural commodities for sale and home use which will have a gross value of not less than $400 based in 1944 prices, said FHA representative James C. Rathbone whose offices at 515 Hahman Drive, Santa Rosa, serve Marin County.

Play Program Proves Popular Attraction

Terra Linda's first full-scale summer recreation program has earned an enhtusiastic response according to attendance figures, reported Robert D. Thomson, recreation and parks commissioner of the Terra Linda Community Services District.

The $3,000 summer program ends Friday. It is jointly sponsored by the community services district and Dixie School District.

Thomson credited the enthusiastic response of youngster to the hard work of Gerhard Lust, program director and his playground supervisors; to the recreation commission and to parents who volunteered to instruct special classes.

Biggest drawing cards have been special events such as a treasure hunt, pet show, costume parade, doll parade, and display of model ships and planes. Ribbons have been awarded. For last Friday's treasure hunt, prizes were donated by three San Rafael sporting goods firms.

Activities are held at the playgrounds of Bernard Hoffman and Santa Margarita Schools, and at a teen center in the Community Building.

Attendance during the first six weeks at art classes was 227; arts and crafts, 336; ceramics, 202; copper enameliing, 172; story hours, 328; tumbling, 445; games for young children, 424; games for older children, 156; beginning archery, 163; advanced archery, 62; beginning golf, 40; beginning tennis, 120; cycling, 91; free play, 1,020; special events on Friday, 660; swimming, 297; bowling, 152; high school league, 126; teen center, 140.

Recreation supervisors under Lust include Mrs. Shirley Waddell, Bill Stuyvesant, Susan Dinkelspiel, Gail Patterson, and Kristy Hotchkiss.

Members of Thomson's recreation commission include Joseph Goff, Thomas Gill, Mrs. Nita Mehrten and Mrs. Edwin S. Stenberg.

New Lehi Being Outfitted For 12-Month Cruise

SANTA MONICA (AP) — DeVere Baker is outfitting the Lehi V for a year-long voyage. He hopes the big yellow raft will drift 14,000 miles from Israel to Guatemala.

Baker says it will take two months to equip the 20 by 40-foot raft for the trip. It was towed into Santa Monica Harbor for that purpose Saturday.

Baker drifted from Redondo Beach to Hawaii in 69 days in 1958 to establish that the Hawaiian Islands might have been populated by tribes from the mainland.

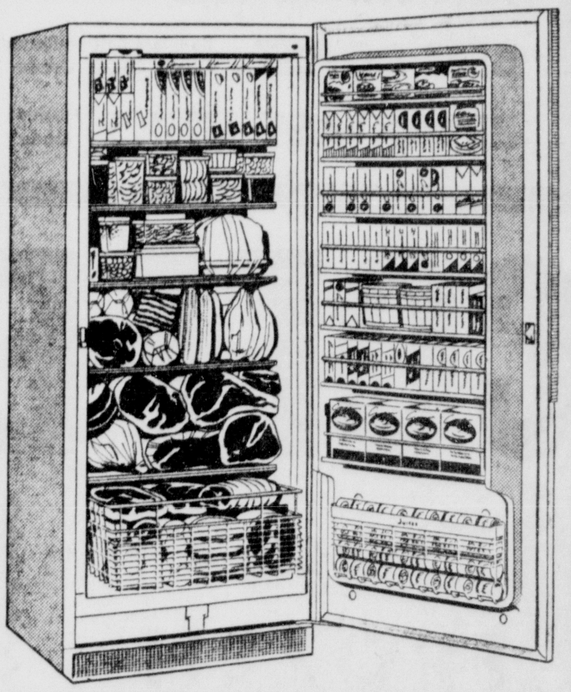

Now he hopes to secure proof for Mormon theories of long sea trips in ancient times.

Two Marinites Going To Polytechnic College

Two Marin County students wil start classes Sept. 24 at California State Polytechnic College in San Luis Obispo.
